

American Doctors Gave Thalidomide Pills to 15,904

Celebrezze Says No Effect on Babies Found; Quiz Incomplete

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze said today that surveys have shown 15,904 patients received thalidomide pills from U.S. doctors and the investigation has not been completed.

Celebrezze told reporters at the first news conference he has held since assuming office that about one in five—or 3,272—of the American patients who received the drug were women of child-bearing age.

"So far as we have been able to determine at this time there has been no effect on offspring," Celebrezze said. He added it has been learned that some patients who got the drug from their doctors passed the pills on to other people and checking of these cases has not been completed.

Celebrezze's figures covered the distribution of the drug by the American manufacturer to U.S. doctors for experimental use while efforts were being made to obtain clearance from the Food and Drug Administration for its release.

Few Cases of Deformity

His report did not take account of the case of a New York woman who gave birth to a malformed baby after receiving the drug from a Park Avenue psychiatrist who obtained supplies from Germany before it was associated with cases of deformity in Europe. The child lived only 41 minutes.

There have also been a few cases of deformity of children born in this country to women who had taken the pills overseas or otherwise obtained them from abroad.

Questioning brought out from Celebrezze that the Food and Drug Administration thus far has information that 207 of the women who received the pills in the experimental distribution were known to be pregnant at the time. Nearly all these women have delivered babies, it was stated, and the investigation showed that many took the suspect drug only in the later months of pregnancy. The critical time for effect on unborn infants is the first three months.

Celebrezze said FDA investigators have completed interviews with 1,097 doctors out of a total of 1,248 reported as investigators or users of thalidomide.

He explained that the number of doctors having the drug exceeds the number of investigators as previously reported by the manufacturer because a few investigators gave some of the drug to their partners or to other physicians.

There were 74 doctors who had some of the drug on hand when the survey was made, with the supplies totaling 22,947 tablets. The secretary said all the tablets found to date have been either destroyed, collected as official samples, or impounded by local authorities.

Celebrezze opened the news conference with a statement that he had hoped to have in final form by today new rules and regulations tightening up requirements for approval of new drugs for general use.

Explosion in Lena Ruins Household Goods of 32nd Men

Post-Crescent News Service

LENA — A Tacoma, Wash. truck driver was burned to death early today when the truck in which he was sleeping exploded after a crash with another truck in the Village of Lena.

Thomas Hall, 19, died in the fire which destroyed the trucks and a load of furniture which was to be delivered to 10 families of the 32nd Division who are returning from Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Hall and his stepfather, Clarence Steffensen, 40, also of Tacoma, had arrived in Lena at 11:30 Monday night and were going to unload the household belongings for a member of Oconto Co. B this morning. They had parked the truck on Highway 141 about 500 feet south of the intersection of Oconto County Highway A.

Pulp Load

Hall was sleeping in the van and Steffensen in the cab of the truck when a semi truck loaded with pulp driven by Delsey Kitchenmaster, Atholstone, crashed into the side of the parked truck at 3:30 a.m.

Steffensen sustained minor burns in attempting to rescue his stepson and was to be released from the Oconto Falls Memorial Hospital this afternoon. Kitchenmaster is in satisfactory condition at the Oconto hospital with second and third degree burns to his hands and face.

Steffensen said this morning that besides the Lena stop they were to go to nine families in Little Chute, Kimberly, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac and the Pickett area. Papers identifying the property were destroyed in the fire.

"I was momentarily knocked out. When I woke up the cab was on fire," he said.

Judge Refuses To Intervene in Railroad Plans

Companies Allowed To Put Job-Cutting Program in Effect

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge declined today to intervene in plans of the nation's railroads to put a job-slashing schedule into effect next week.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph Sam Perry dismissed an injunction suit filed by five unions representing 200,000 operating employees. He also turned down union pleas that the injunction suit be amended to conform with the railroads' latest job-reduction notice.

Written Order

The action, which will be finalized by a written order to be signed Wednesday, leaves in effect an order from the railroads for the immediate dismissal of 40,000 diesel firemen when it becomes effective Aug. 16.

It opens the way for referral of the dispute to the White House which could appoint an emergency board to prevent any strike for at least 60 days.

The railroads have issued two notices to their 200,000 operating employees.

One notice would wipe out immediately the jobs of about 13,000 diesel firemen and later gradually eliminate 27,000 other such jobs by not replacing workers when vacancies occur.

40,000 Jobs Involved

The other notice would, among other things, wipe out the 40,000 jobs at once and eliminate other instances of what the carriers call "featherbedding" or unnecessary jobs.

The five operating rail unions filed an injunction suit against the notice from the carriers that followed the recommendations of a presidential commission.

The railroads are, in effect, banking on support from the Kennedy administration in their long battle to change tradition-hardened union working rules.

In a surprise move Monday, the railroads announced that drastic new work rules will go into effect Aug. 16 for 200,000 operating employees.

The proposed changes, among other things, would eliminate the jobs of 40,000 diesel firemen.

East Germans Give West 'Ultimatum'

Say 'Interference' Must End Or Train Excursions Will Stop

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service

BONN — The mounting war of nerves around Berlin was marked for the first time today by an "ultimatum" from the East German Communist regime to the West German authorities in Bonn.

Unless assurances are received within 24 hours that there will be no further interference with the sleeping car and restaurant car crews of an excursion train between Berlin and Austria, said a letter addressed to West Germany's Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, the train will no longer cross West German territory.

The train, as are all trains in and around Berlin, is operated by the East German railroads. In this case it has been chartered by a West Berlin travel agency and once a week carries West Berliners through East Germany and part of West Germany to vacation spots in Austria.

On each of the first two trips on successive Saturdays the service personnel have been removed from the train at the West German-Austrian border at Freilassing because the crew members did not have the prescribed travel documents.

After the first such incident the East Germans made noisy protests and announced that in the future the train would be routed through East German and Czechoslovakian territory to avoid West Germany. That route, in fact, is about 20 miles shorter.

But the East Germans appeared to be backing down.

70 Escape in Landing Crash At Knoxville

Winds Blow Plane From Its Runway In Thunderstorm

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Seventy persons aboard an American Airlines plane escaped serious injury in a landing crash blamed on gusty winds which blew the plane off a runway Monday during a thunderstorm.

The right wing of the four-engine Electra turbine-propeller plane ripped off and caught fire. The fuselage settled about 50 feet away.

Alan Atkin, airport manager, said the separation of the wing and fuselage probably saved the lives of the 65 passengers and five crewmen.

"If the wing had not torn off, the plane would have burned with the passengers aboard," Atkin said.

Two persons, a mother and her teen-age daughter, were injured, neither seriously.

The plane was bound from Dallas, Tex., to New York.

Passengers, including Reps. Cliff Davis, D-Tenn., and Dale Alford, D-Ark., hailed stewardess Nancy Root, 23, of Dallas, Texas, as a heroine.

Miss Root hurled her 100-pound body against an emergency door repeatedly until it opened, allowing passengers to escape.

A thunderstorm was in progress and wind gusts up to 40 miles per hour swept the airport as the plane approached Knoxville.

"We were taking a terrific beating as we approached the field," Alford said. "I personally felt we were going to crash. I don't know how the pilot did as well as he did."

Capt. Vic James of Ft. Worth, Tex., the pilot, said a wind gust blew the airliner off to the right of the runway causing the right landing gear to collapse.

He said the plane then skidded in an arc and the right wing tipped off and caught fire. Airport firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Miss Rachel Dix, 40, of Westbury, Long Island, N.Y., suffered a minor injury to her right knee.

The Civil Aeronautics Board sent investigators to conduct an inquiry into the crash—the eighth involving an Electra since 1959 and the second in which there were no fatalities.

1962 Total of $139,584,325 Represents 5.67 Per Cent Increase Over 1961 Figure

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

For the third consecutive year Appleton's assessed valuation has increased by more than $7 million.

Total assessed valuation of Appleton business, industry and residential property for 1962 is $139,584,325, City Assessor John Pierre said today. It increased $7,495,650 or 5.67 per cent, over last year.

The increase, by itself, would produce $330,529 in city revenue without raising present tax rates. If valuation had not increased, the city would have to raise tax rates about $2.65 to get the additional spending power.

The $330,529 represents about 5.67 per cent of the 1961 tax levy. Despite the additional revenue from the valuation increase, the city still might have to raise taxes because of school and sewer construction.

Residential Led Hike

Last year's total valuation was $132,088,325.

The 1962 increase compares to $7,745,600 in 1961 and the record increase of $8,818,450 in 1960.

This year's big gain was caused mainly by a higher residential valuation, Pierre explained. Under new state tax laws, residential property must be assessed at nearly the same percentage to full value as is other types of real estate in each municipality.

Residential property this year was assessed at "50 per cent plus" of valuation, Pierre said, compared to 45.8 per cent in 1961. Mercantile properties were 52.9 per cent and manufacturing properties, 55.2 per cent last year.

New Building Helped

In addition to the increase of residential property valuation, new construction and lands brought into the city last year too late to be included on the tax rolls has helped to bring about the increase.

Pierre's annual assessment report reflects an increase in value in new home construction, but a lesser number of new homes.

A total of 284 new homes was added to the assessment rolls, compared to 299 in 1961. Yet the antitrust violations than in any assessed valuation of the new full year since 1950.

homes is $2,286,925, which is greater than the $2,219,500 from last year.

Pierre said the $67,425 difference was caused a greater number of partially completed homes on this year's assessment roll. Normally, there are about 160 partially completed homes, but there are 223 in this year's report.

The figures show that the dynamic growth of Appleton in the last few years has not let up during 1962.

21 New Businesses

New mercantile and manufacturing units also have added significantly to the assessment roll. The city added 21 new mercantile businesses with a $664,325 valuation and 4 new manufacturing units with $418,650 in value.

Total personal property has jumped $195,900, in valuation, while real property increased by $7,299,750 to account for the $7,495,650 total.

Personal property was assessed at $132,288,575.

Cites Growth In Suits Under Antitrust Law

Executives Face Heavy Penalties, Attorney Asserts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The federal government clearly is demonstrating determination to personalize antitrust guilt by criminal indictments against corporate executives, Richard A. Whiting, an antitrust defender, said today.

"No longer can the corporation officer count on paying his way out of antitrust liability," Whiting declared in an address prepared for the American Bar Association's section on antitrust law.

"Jail sentences have become more common for the punishment of individuals involved in flagrant corporate violations. Increasing use of this sanction seems probable," said Whiting, a Washington, D.C., attorney.

In the first six months of 1962, he said, more corporation executives were indicted for alleged antitrust violations than in any full year since 1950.

Basic Advice

Whiting declared the basic course which attorneys give their management clients must teach this:

"All arrangements—however arrived at—between competitors affecting prices or allocating production, customers or territories are fraught with antitrust consequences."

Whiting pointed out that violations may bring a personal fine of $50,000 on each count of a Sherman Act indictment.

"Severe fines are no longer an idle threat, as the electrical industry cases, among others, have demonstrated," he said.

The ABA is holding its 85th annual convention in San Francisco this week.

Fry Granted New Federal Trial

MADISON (AP)—Clark L. (Pappy) Fry, a 70-year-old inventor and promoter from Neenah who was convicted 20 months ago of fraud, will be given a new federal trial in Madison, beginning Nov. 5.

The trial date was announced Monday by U. S. Atty. Nathan S. Heffernan.

Fry was sentenced in January of 1961 to five years in prison and fined $5,000 on his conviction of using the mails to defraud in interstate commerce. But the U.S. Court of Appeals ordered a new trial on grounds Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone "departed from his attitude of disinterestedness" and did not give Fry a fair hearing. Fry is free on bond.

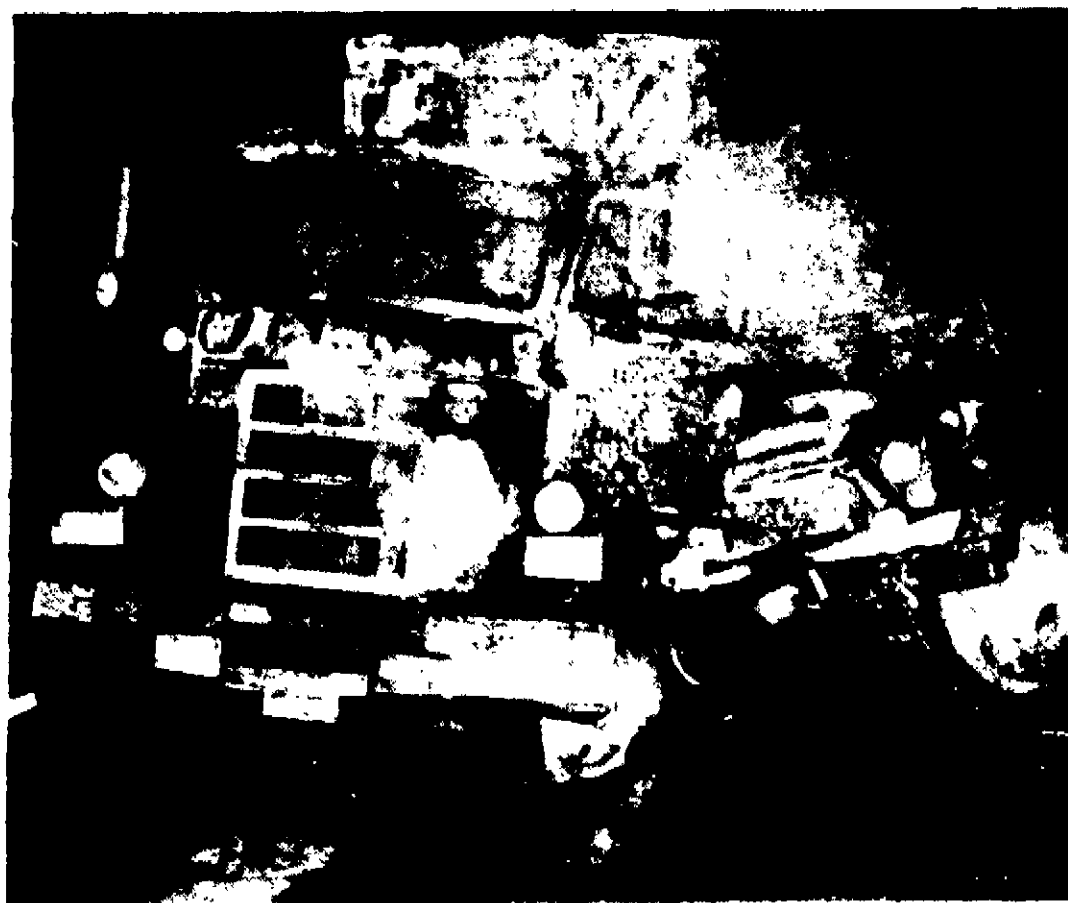

Ben Khedda Yields Powers to Bureau Headed by Ben Bella

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian provisional government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda surrendered its powers today to the political bureau headed by Vice Premier Ahmed Ben Bella.

A communique issued by Ben Khedda's office said the powers held hitherto by the provisional government of the Algerian Republic are henceforth exercised by the political bureau.

The communique said the provisional government continues in existence as the "institution of the revolution" until a meeting of the National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA)—the self-appointed nationalist parliament that directed the Algerian rebellion—scheduled for early September.

The Ben Khedda regime thus assumes formally the almost entirely figurehead role it has had since Algeria became independent. Its assumption of actual control over the administration of the country was stymied by the bitter struggle for power between Ben Bella and his opponents.

Light voter turnouts reflecting lackluster campaigns were expected today as voters in Michigan, Kansas and Missouri pick their candidates for November's general election.

Major interest was focused on Michigan where George Romney, former president of American Motors, is bidding for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Romney had no opponent on the ballot, but the size of his vote will be examined by political observers in light of his possible candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Assails 'Indecisiveness'

Javits Proposes $5.5 Billion Tax Cut to Aid Business, Individuals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., proposed today that Congress enact a $5.5 billion incentive tax cut benefiting individuals and corporations before it goes home.

And Javits, often a supporter of administration proposals, criticized President Kennedy for what he called "agonizing indecisiveness."

Criticism Keenly

Kennedy said several weeks ago that he would study economic indicators, then decide whether to ask for an immediate tax cut to spur the economy. He has indicated he might announce a decision later this month.

The domestic economy "is moving sideways in such a way as to present a clear and present danger of another recession," said Javits.

The extraordinary way the President is seemingly transferring his leadership to committee chairmen on this tax cut issue "only dramatizes his indecision," Javits declared in a speech prepared for delivery before the Senate.

"Instead of telling the nation what is needed, the President seems more interested in telling the nation what committee chairmen, of his own party, will approve," said the New York senator.

Javits said his tax proposals would eliminate income taxes for persons earning less than $2,000 a year, would reduce maximum personal taxes from 91 to 63 per cent, would drop corporation tax rates from 52 to 50 per cent and would include reductions for all other taxpayers with emphasis on the $2,000 to $5,000 bracket.

Proxmire Raps Reserve Board

Congress headed into a new round of hearings with a joint Senate-House committee opening a public inquiry today into the economy's health.

Before the hearings got under way, a committee member, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., blasted policies of the Federal Reserve Board as "economy slow-down" policies.

"For the Federal Reserve Board to deliberately force up interest rates as high as it has been doing, is to throw sand into the engine," he said in a statement today.

Thus Proxmire went on record with some other committee members who have expressed concern that a tax cut for next year might result in a greatly increased budget deficit with little bolstering of the economy—unless the reserve board adopts lower-interest, easier-credit policies.

Defends Policy

Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr. has defended the board's position, contending that interest rates that he pegged high enough so that U.S. capital won't be attracted abroad, which would aggravate the nation's balance of payments deficit.

Nearing the end of its hearings, the House Ways and Means Committee was scheduled to hear today from Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Budget Director David Bell.

Worker's Severed Hand Reattached to Arm in Emergency Operation

CHICAGO (AP)—A bindery worker's severed right hand was reattached to his arm Monday in a dramatic emergency operation.

Hospital authorities said the operation on Arthur Holmes, 41, was the first such surgery in the Midwest. Three similar operations have been performed in this country and Canada in the past four months.

The three staff surgeons who carried out the rare operation at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital said success or failure of the operation would not be known for at least 48 hours.

Fellow workers rushed Holmes and the detached hand to the hospital and surgery was begun less than an hour after the accident.

Projects Listed for Resources Program

Agencies Submit Plans for $10 Million in Recreational Facilities for Wisconsin

MADISON (AP)—State agencies submitted to Gov. Gaylord Nelson Monday recommendations for spending $10 million in the second year of the $50 million outdoor resources program he championed.

Recommendations for 1963-65 include $5.7 million for state parks and forest recreation areas, $1.5 million for wildlife habitat, $1 million for public fishing grounds and $441,000 for youth conservation camps.

The remainder of the 1963-65 fiscal year's recommended expenditures under the 10-year program are: $400,000 for purchase of scenic rights along state highways, $300,000 for creation of new lakes, $200,000 for urban open spaces, $200,000 for recreational facilities on county forest crop lands and $140,000 for tourist information centers.

Proposed Projects

The projects will be evaluated by the state recreation committee and that group will then recommend priorities to the 1963 Legislature. As proposed, the 1963-65 program continues land acquisition development projects started in 1961-63.

Projects proposed are: Addition of at least 12 new state recreation areas, including a new site on Rock Island at the tip of the Door County Peninsula, in the Bayfield County peninsula along Lake Superior and in Menominee County, plus canoe campsites along the Wisconsin and Fox rivers; new scientific areas, and three new scenic state parks and three new state park recreation areas to be located after surveys.

Creation of a third youth conservation camp in the Kettle Moraine area of southeastern Wisconsin.

Construction of six new lakes in flood control projects in Vernon, Iowa, Monroe and St. Croix counties.

Scenic Programs

Expansion of the Highway Commission's scenic easement program to include construction of overlooks, waysides and water access points.

Expansion of land acquisition to include all 45 existing state parks and state forest recreation areas.

Creation of a second permanent tourist information center on the interstate highway system in the Janesville-Beloit area, plus addition of a third mobile information center.

Double Funds

A doubling of state matching funds for recreational development on county forest crop lands—from $100,000 appropriated in 1961-63 to $200,000 in 1963-65.

Outlay of $150,000 to develop wildlife habitat at the abandoned Bong Air Base.

Land Acquisition

Land acquisition at 69 existing fish habitat projects, compared with 15 new projects in 1961-63.

Land acquisition at 50 existing wildlife habitat projects.

Land acquisition at four new wildlife habitat projects. Added to the game habitat projects priority list are Cherokee Marsh in Dane County, Endeavor Marsh in Marquette County, Loon Lake in Barron County and Paradise Marsh in Columbia County.

Army Trying to Ignore Charges On Stalingrad

Gen. Walker Calls World War II Seige Soviet Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army is trying to stay aloof from charges by former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker that the battle of Stalingrad in World War II was a Communist propaganda farce to whip up American war efforts.

Walker, the right-wing officer who resigned his commission after the Army relieved him of command of a division in Germany last year, said he got the information at a Pentagon briefing in 1948 or 1949.

The Army issued a terse statement that a Stalingrad battle report to which Walker referred had been found in its files but is classified and will not be released.

Walker, in an interview with the Dallas (Tex.) News, quoted retired Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel as saying in the briefing: "There was no great siege of Stalingrad. It was my impression it was farce, built up to make Americans work night and day for production in the war effort."

Stalingrad was considered the symbol of Russian resistance in World War II. German troops surrounded it in November 1942, were unable to take the city and finally were forced to surrender Jan. 31, 1943.

At his home in San Diego, Calif., O'Daniel said he could not recall saying the siege was a propaganda farce.

Walker, who now lives in Dallas and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Texas Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the German army made no more than three direct attacks on Stalingrad and never assembled more than 3,000 troops outside the city.

When asked about Walker's interview remarks, an Army spokesman said there would be no comment.

Knowles Takes Active Part in Kuehn Campaign

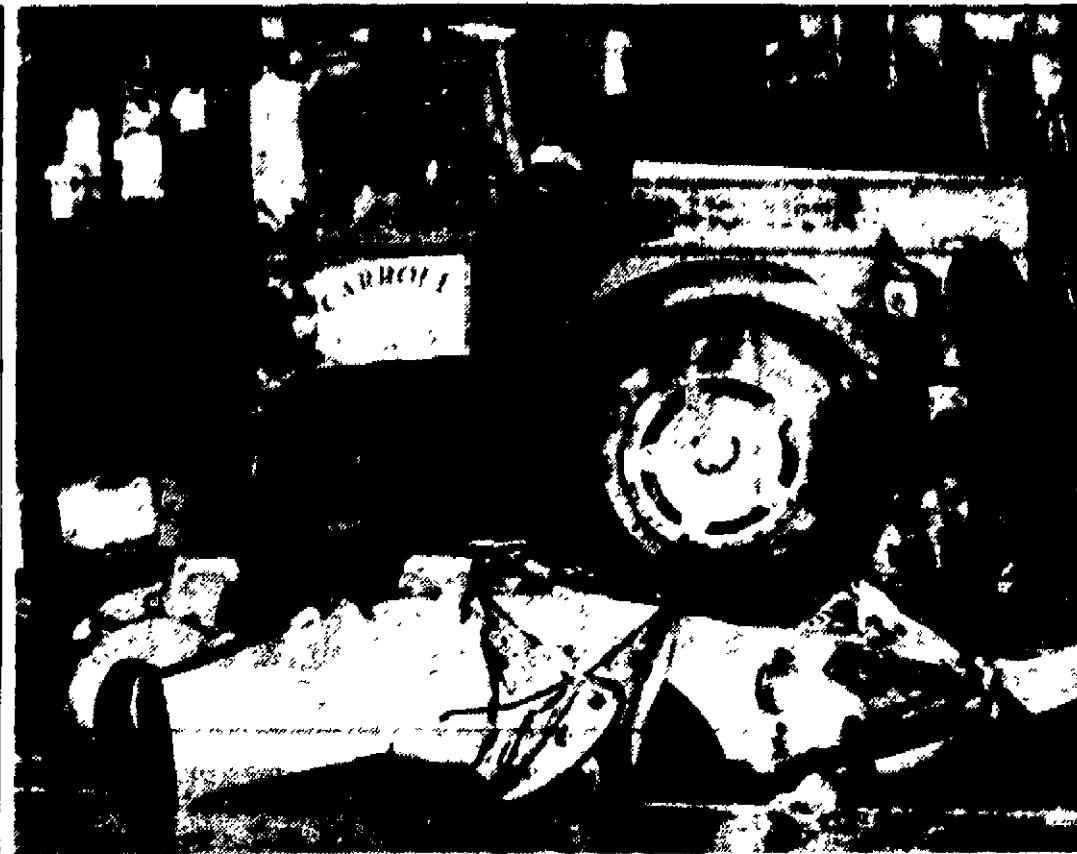

MADISON (AP)—Lt. Gov. Warren P. Knowles, a 54-year-old veteran of the political wars, started campaigning today for Philip G. Kuehn, the man who defeated him for the Republican endorsement for governor.

Knowles and Kuehn, who at 41 has yet to hold a public office, were in Superior, visiting business places, shipyards and railroad shops, and the Tri-State Fair.

The joint appearance will be repeated in at least four other key cities before the Sept. 11 primary in an attempt to get die-hard Knowles' supporters onto the Kuehn bandwagon.

Kuehn shaded Knowles by a scant 62 votes in the Republican endorsement race for governor. Some Knowles followers have been slow to forget the defeat, and several have said they plan to switch their allegiance to Wilbur Reink of Sun Prairie, Kuehn's GOP primary opponent.

The disension, as isolated as it might be, has kept Kuehn's campaign from gathering a full head of steam.

Thought It Was Joke

'Monster' Veterans' Bill Slain by House

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Some happy-go-lucky Congressmen apparently thought a drive for a $1-billion-a-year pension program for veterans of World War I was just a joke.

None of the major veterans organizations was behind it.

And it didn't have the support of the Kennedy administration.

So when the House members—almost all running for re-election this year—were asked to sign a "discharge petition" to bring the measure to a vote on the House floor, many blithely signed.

It would take 219 signatures to force the vote. It seemed hardly possible such a number could be obtained.

So in a few months a virtually unknown veterans organization called the Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. Inc. managed to line up 209 signatures.

Suddenly some of the representatives who hadn't taken the matter seriously began to realize they might be playing with a monster.

Today that monster has apparently been slain. But it wasn't easy.

It can be taken as axiomatic that no Congressman likes to vote against a veterans' pension, regardless of its merits, during an election year. So somebody had to stand up publicly and say: This is bad.

The man who grabbed the bull by the horns was Rep. Olin Teague, D-Tex., Chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

"False Colors" The bill, he said, was "discriminatory—favoring one group of veterans against all others."

It was being promoted under "false colors," he said, and the general public and members of Congress weren't getting the truth about how much it would cost and who it would help.

It also would violate the "most basic principle" of pension legislation, Teague said, by giving the largest percentage of the money to those who needed it least.

Remove Names After Teague's talk, editorial comment against the proposal gave some of the representatives who had signed the petition misgivings and they withdrew their signatures.

The number of signatures is down to less than 201, and many House members believe the drive is contained.

French See U.S. Via Telstar

PARIS (AP)—French television viewers saw some scenes and news shots direct from America Monday night via a Telstar hookup with New York.

The 20-minute program was produced by the Radiodiffusion Television Francaise in cooperation with an American network. Both images and sound came through clearly.

French viewers saw shots of Central Park, Washington Square and the Museum of Modern Art in Manhattan, scenes in Los Angeles connected with the death of film star Marilyn Monroe, and then scenes of a women's pacifist demonstration.

More Albany Anti-Segregation Demonstrations

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—The prospect of more anti-segregation demonstrations confronted Albany today after a two-day lull in protest activity by Negroes.

"We've got to do something," a student leader told about 700 Negroes Monday night at a church meeting.

"If we can get 200 to 300 people to march at one time, we can break this thing," said the youth, Cordell Reagan of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

A noon meeting was called at the church for an undisclosed purpose.

At Monday night's mass meeting, integration leader Dr. W. G. Anderson said a group of ministers from New York and other eastern cities would arrive today. The clergymen were among 100 ministers who demonstrated at the White House Monday.

Anderson asked any person who "suffered any type of abuse" while in jail to meet with an attorney for the integrationists.

"It's high time we started arresting some of the policemen," Anderson said.

Murrow's Testimony on Satellite Bill Seems To Have Helped Foes

Information Agency Director Fears Cost of Transmission

BY PETER LISAGOR

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Edward R. Murrow is a man who understands what he calls the "impact of immediacy" in broadcasting news events, but his experience before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which was inquiring into the foreign policy aspects of a satellite communications system, had all of the immediacy of an urban renewal program on the moon.

The former news commentator, now director of the U.S. Information Agency, went before the committee to defend the Administration's bill to permit private industry to share in the operations and profits of Telstar and its successor.

Before he had finished in a night session of the committee, he had given, unwittingly or not, fresh ammunition to a small band of filibusters against the bill led by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Sepulchral Tones

In the sepulchral tones he used on his famous "See It Now" Television programs, Murrow said that the USIA would have to pay upwards of $900 million a year to broadcast 90 minutes a day via Telstar to seven regions of the world.

He based his calculations upon current cable rates and noted that the estimated figure was eight times the present USIA budget for its world-wide operations.

Morse got little satisfaction from either Murrow or Secretary of State Dean Rusk in pursuit of his thesis that U.S. foreign policy would somehow be compromised or jeopardized by a Telstar operated by private firms.

Rusk said the bill would adequately safeguard and promote the nation's foreign policy interests. A privately-owned corporation would not impinge upon those interests, he testified.

But none of the bill's opponents appeared to regard Rusk's testimony on this point as especially relevant. They have chosen to fight the bill as foes of the "interests," a familiar position in American politics dating to the days of populism.

And though they reportedly command less than a dozen to 15 votes in the Senate, they seem determined to fight it out on the issue of public versus private ownership of Satellite communications if it takes all summer—which it could very well do.

Soviets Crackdown on Private Home Building

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government ordered today a crackdown on the building of private homes.

A decree said money and materials should be channeled in steady into the building of cooperative apartment houses, financed by the prospective tenants and by state credits.

Soviet Concept of Journalism Differs Widely From Ours

Russians Say Press Should Stick To Government Prescribed Truth

BY LEE HILLS
MOSCOW — Our first of many encounters with top Soviet journalists was a cordial dinner that crackled with needling, leg-pulling and leg-pulling. It ended with a late-night tour of the Kremlin and the city conducted by Premier Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law.

The final encounter was a spectacular free-for-all, with the angry Communists furiously resenting our telling about how the transcript of our Khrushchev interview had been doctored, and able used to watch his subjects beheaded, our guide turned with, "Better be careful", and "Have you seen anybody about to bite you?" He casually pointed out the location of Khrushchev's office.

Later, boarding a bus to tour the new Lenin Hills section overlooking the city, Adzhubei took a front seat and announced, "You have the highest paid guide in Moscow."

At the skyscraper Foreign Ministry Building all lights were out. "That means," he grinned, "we are not writing any sinister notes to your government tonight."

Near Khrushchev's

On the grounds of the 32-story Moscow University he motioned to a nearby residential area and said Khrushchev lived there.

Back downtown near midnight our jovial host said he couldn't take us out on the town because "The nearest night club is in Copenhagen."

Three weeks later on our final night in Russia there was little kidding when the Soviets arrived at Spaso House for Ambassador Thompson's reception.

G. A. Zhukov who writes commentaries for Pravda marched into one group and teed off on a U.S. editor I. M. Zamyatin the new Soviet press chief took on Bob Estabrook of the Washington Post and B. S. Burkov of Novosti News Agency who headed the Russian journalists visiting America last year tackled me.

I soon had to turn him over to a colleague because an irate Chairman Satukov of the Union of Soviet Journalists was ap

Answers Toast

When Editor Felix McKnight of Dallas responded to a vodka toast during the elaborate six-course meal at the Moscow Hotel, his Soviet seatmate, recently back from Washington, chided.

"We won't rat on you to Gen. Walker (who lives in Dallas) if you don't rat on us to him."

(Gen. Edwin Walker quit the army in a row over his strong anti-communist stand.)

Then Adzhubei leaned across the table and confided to me, "Watch out when you go back to your room. That thing in the chandelier is a tape recorder. The way to beat it is knock on the door, open it and say, 'No, Mr. Hills isn't here.' We expected him but he can't come." Then call people by other names. "He ribbed 'We put you at the Metropole Hotel near the Kremlin' so if Kennedy drops an H bomb you'll get it."

Much Kidding

This sort of leg-pulling about bugging rooms, H-bombs, secrecy, etc., went on all evening plus much talk about peace and friendship.

A big blond pink-cheeked round-faced man who likes to be the center of attention, Adzhubei then walked us to Red Square and around the Kremlin grounds.

Though it was past 10 p.m. it was light enough to read a newspaper.

Pointing to where Ivan the Ter wrote our questions to include statements of facts that the Russian people haven't been told, such as: that the U.S.S.R. broke the nuclear test moratorium; that its tests were in the atmosphere, that the Soviets vetoed and killed the U.S. proposal of 1946 to destroy all A-bombs and put nuclear development under the U.N., and that the Soviets restrict news-gathering here by our correspondents.

But the Communist attitude is that you're a bum if you intimate that all is not perfect.

We were interviewed many times ourselves. Anything favorable was printed. Anything critical was omitted. Readers got the idea we thought everything was pretty terrific. The Soviet editors were annoyed that we got facts on the record in our questions, hurt because we called their hand on the changes.

The most telling lesson learned from these encounters is that the Communists will tolerate no "co-existence" of ideas, no widespread exchange of views on totalitarianism vs. freedom.

Cite Struggle

"In the sphere of ideology," said a recent Communist magazine article, "an irreconcilable class struggle, a struggle for the minds and hearts of people, has been and will be waged."

There is no touchier job than to penetrate the Iron Curtain and bring to the average Russian the true and peaceful intentions of Americans. We must try.

The hot debates that night at Spaso House were not typical of our 23 days in the U.S.S.R., though we had many skirmishes.

Everywhere, people were friendly, courteous and hospitable. Except for one crackpot in Volgograd there were no anti-American manifestations. Our editor hosts arranged large as we had requested a wonderful trip (which we paid for). By their standards I am sure, they gave us an unprecedented opportunity to see and do things in their country.

The acrimony of the reception cooled and it broke up on a friendly note with each side vowing to urge more of such exchange visits.

Next morning most of them drove to the airport in the rain to present gifts and see us off for Paris.

Archery Shoot Winners Named

KAUKAUNA — Traveling trophy winners for the last week of archery competition sponsored by the recreation department were announced Monday by Harold Kobin, instructor.

Dave Andrews with 20 hits and 102 points topped the PeeWee division followed by Tom Meyers with 17 hits and 79 points. Greg Hanagan with 32 hits and 146 points and Jay Kobussen with 23 hits and 129 points placed the Midget division. The Junior leaders were Bruce Specht with 33 hits and 175 points and Ron Boree with 32 hits and 169 points. Tim Fernald had 28 hits and 134 points to lead the Senior event.

In tennis action, Look Drug players increased their record to 23 wins and 10 losses followed by Thilmany with 22 wins and 17 losses. Dave Bruhl was the lone winner of two matches last week.

Boaters, Campers, Fishermen Enthusiastic About Mississippi

BY CHARLES ROUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

CLINTON, Iowa — "The Mississippi River is too thick to drink and too thin to plow."

That elderly critique on the big muddy Father of Waters may be heard by jokers up and down the 2,346 miles from its headwaters to its goal at the Gulf. But, with accuracy, it could be added that she's a pretty good river for boaters, too.

She is Fishermen and pleasure cruising folks are enthusiastic over the merits of the Mississippi. It is estimated that there is a free river access area within every 20 miles of the big stream. When the Great River Road is completed and the additional proposed free access areas are developed, there is to be at least one free access area in every five miles.

Rouse

Boaters along the Mississippi are often campers, too. The multi-thousands of sandy islands in the upper stretches of the big water are available to one and all.

Camping on the islands is unrestricted. There is no limit in time for the camper who likes to settle in a spot and radiate in all directions.

Also along the upper stretches of the Mississippi, there are fine public parks and camping sites. Among them, Merrick State Park, Fountain City, Wis., Perrot State Park, Trempealeau, Wis., John A. Latsch State Park, Winona, Minn., Pikes Peak State Park, McGregor, Iowa, Wyalusing State Park, Prairie du Chien, Wis., Nelson Dewey State Park, Cassville, Wis., Bellevue State Park, Bellevue, Iowa, and the Mississippi Palisades State Park, Savannah, Ill.

The Great River Road is a proposed dual highway with attractive roads marching up and down both sides of the Mississippi, from headwaters to the Gulf.

There is much to attract the study as you go" kind of boatman. The old river has been close to the root of American frontier history. Historic sites and historic homes are scattered along the Great River Road like old trees which are plentiful.

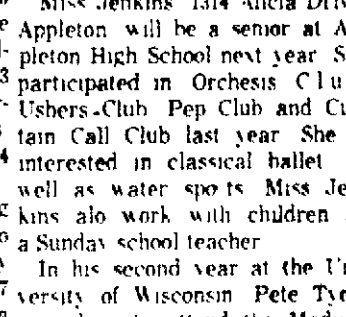

Grant's home is at Galena, Ill. and Mark Twain's stands at Hannibal. Mo. Hercules Dousman's fantastically beautiful residence is at Prairie du Chien, and Buffalo Bill's boyhood home is still preserved at Le Claire, Iowa.

Leaders Both Want Careers In Medicine

This is Pete Ryerson's second, and Miss Judith Jenkins, first year as playground leader for the Appleton Recreation Department. Besides being assigned to Washington School playground the two have future careers in the medical field in common.

Ryerson

Jenkins

Miss Jenkins, 1314 Alicia Drive, Appleton, will be a senior at Appleton High School next year. She participated in Orchestras, Club Ushers, Club Pep Club and Curran Call Club last year. She is interested in classical ballet as well as water sports. Miss Jenkins also works with children as a Sunday school teacher.

In his second year at the University of Wisconsin, Pete Ryerson plans to attend the Medical School at McGill in Montreal, Canada after he has finished his pre-med work at the university. Pete does YMCA work and filled his extra time at school with the tennis team and school newspaper.

Historic forts, too, punctuate the riversides. There is, for example, Fort Snelling at St. Paul, Fort Crawford at Prairie du Chien and the U.S. arsenal at Rock Island, Ill.

Indian mounds are so numerous that no man can cite them all. The largest mounds in the U.S. known as the Cahokia Mounds, are at history, beauty or boating the East St. Louis, Ill., but there are literally thousands of them in public parks and along the crests of the bluffs overlooking the deep gorge of the Mississippi.

Boaters can chug, paddle, row or drift their way down hundreds of exciting miles of beauty, and they can dock their

Registration Opens For Baton Lessons

KAUKAUNA — Girls interested in enrolling in fall and winter baton twirling classes are to register with Mrs. Mark Nagan, recreation department instructor, at the recreation office.

Classes are scheduled to get underway Oct. 6 and will continue through March or mid-April. Approximately 26 lessons will be given. A fee of $8 will be charged when classes get underway.

Bear Creek Man Pays For Being Intoxicated

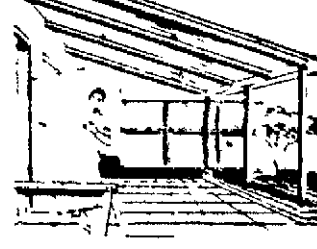

LITTLE CHUTE — Otville J. Martin, 51 route 1, Bear Creek, pleaded guilty to a charge of public intoxication and was fined $5 and costs when arraigned before Anton Jansen, municipal justice of the peace.

Martin was arrested when found sleeping in an automobile parked on a village street.

Death of Marilyn Monroe

The sudden death of Marilyn Monroe was a great shock to average Americans because it brought home clearly the great contradiction in the lives of famous film stars—their lives have been molded through publicity into a format with which they cannot live privately.

Miss Monroe referred to this inner conflict a number of times in frank statements to reporters.

"Fame to me certainly is only a temporary and a partial happiness," she said. "But fame is not really for a daily diet, that's not what fulfills you."

"I never quite understood it—this sex symbol. I always thought symbols were those things you clash together. That's the trouble, a sex symbol becomes a thing. I just hate to be a thing."

Most American males undoubtedly secretly wondered how it would be to be married to Marilyn Monroe. Many women undoubtedly envied her obvious physical attractions for the other sex.

Now her death at 36 reveals the basic unhappiness of her whole life.

As one psychiatrist put it: "Fame and money prevent the successful person from enjoying what we enjoy—the normal fun of sitting unnoticed in the bleachers. They have many frustrations we don't think about. My women patients have the opposite problem. They think they should be movie stars instead of having to do housework. An actress has a desire, perhaps to be 'just doing the dishes.'"

Stability in Higher Education

During the last year the top command of the state-supported institutions of higher learning has turned over completely. A new chairman of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin was chosen in the person of Jacob Friedrick. A new chairman of the board of regents of the state colleges was installed in the person of John K. Kyle. Mr. Friedrick is a professional labor organization official. Mr. Kyle also spent most of his adult life in economic-political assignments that involved militant action programs in the field of politics. Most recently he had been the executive officer of the Wisconsin Association of Co-operatives.

An outsider, from Los Angeles or Philadelphia, might deduce on the basis of such changes in top office of these basic public services that their programs and policies would be modified simultaneously. Yet there has been no visible change. Faculties, curricula, building programs, admissions or retention policies, standards required for the awards of degrees, or any of the other basic policy matters involved in the operation of a higher education program have been affected to no perceptible degree.

What is shown here is the security of the foundation of these institutions that are playing an ever more significant role in the development of our community as they enroll more of our young people in their classes each autumn.

Two of the state colleges recently installed new presidents. Prof. Fred H. Harrington has been elected as the new president of the University of Wisconsin, as a result of the unfortunate loss of Dr. Elvehjem. Dr. Harrington's statement on his election was typical, and was expected by virtually all of his constituents on and off the campus of the University. He intends to carry on the policies of his distinguished predecessor, he said.

This essential continuity of purpose and method is one of the most valuable characteristics of the state government structure in Wisconsin, and one of its most distinguishing characteristics among the governmental services in this country. Mr. Friedrick and Mr. Kyle were chosen for their high offices by a Democratic governor, in the sense that he recruited them for their seats on their respective governing boards. Presumably a Republican governor would have chosen other men. Doubtless these board chairmen have had widely divergent views on scores of topics from those of probable Republican appointees. But in Wisconsin political differences are waived at the entrance to the board rooms of the university and the colleges. These are truly people's institutions, and we are proud that they are.

Split Among Conservatives

Hopes of a new Conservative Party in New York state to make a mark in this fall's elections have received a blow from the decision of Robert Thompson Pell to withdraw as the party's candidate for United States Senator. And to add fuel to the fire, he announced at the same time that he would support Republican candidates for state and congressional offices in November.

Mr. Pell did not state exactly why he had come to this decision. But he did refer to the acceptance of support from the John Birch Society by the Conservative party's candidate for governor. "I'm unqualifiedly and unreservedly opposed to the John Birch Societies and I want no truck with them," he said.

He said his experience had taught him that "the only effective manner for a true American conservative to register his views is within the Republican party."

There are so many differences of viewpoint among ultra-conservatives that it would appear they are unable to achieve any real political importance.

Pushing the Polio Fight

Two large cities, Cleveland and Houston, are holding mass immunization campaigns with the intention of wiping out polio in their areas if possible. Recently 918,965 persons in the Houston area and 741,675 in the Cleveland area turned out for these mass immunization campaigns against polio.

The Houston campaign was the first step in a crusade to immunize 3,250,000 persons by August 12. This is approximately one-third of the Texas population. The drive there is being sponsored by the county medical society. It started after an upsurge in polio with 113 cases this year compared with 30 this time a year ago. Harris County had 15 polio cases this year compared with seven all of last year. The Harris County Medical Society called on 800 doctors and 6,000 volunteers for the campaign. The society underwrote the cost estimated at more than a million dollars. Each person receiving the vaccine was asked to contribute 25 cents although no one was turned away if he was unable to pay.

At Cleveland Type 1 and Type 3 polio have been eliminated, the doctors believe. Now they are attempting to stamp out Type 2. The most recent turnout was lower than the previous turnouts although it represented about 45 per cent of the metropolitan Cuyahoga County's population. Vacation time was blamed for the drop. However, the Cleveland doctors estimated that at least 700,000 persons will show up the final day this week which would put the total at around 85 per cent.

The experience of Texas indicates the need for continuing this war against polio. Once polio was a matter of vital concern to everyone in every community. The horror of crippled children was well known and great sacrifices were made to fight this disease. Recently, however, we have become a little self-satisfied merely because there has been a large drop in the incidence of the disease but, as Texas knows, it can have a jump from 30 to 113 cases within a year unless the fight is continued.

There's Too Much Advice Going On

From The Raleigh N.C. News & Observer

The $30 million that will be spent by this country for a three-year drive to "prevent and control juvenile delinquency" is a small amount of money relative to the entire national budget. And if the drive succeeds in reducing the snow-balling crime rate among youngsters, the money will be even less significant. Still it is disturbing that such action is necessary when this country has more schools, more recreational facilities, more churches, a higher standard of living than ever before.

The schools have guidance counselors and psychiatrists. The recreation departments have directors and organizers. The churches have youth advisors and youth programs. Even the legal courts, as they should, are pect of the situation may be that the parents no longer feel obligated to "train the child up in the way it should go." Perhaps many parents feel that they don't have to be bothered when they can leave so much of the raising of their children to the growing number of professional "counselors." Or perhaps the parents who are truly interested in their children are so awed by the "experts" and "organizations" that they feel the child will be better taught and led by them.

Whatever the reason, it becomes clearer all the time that the results of higher and higher expenditures on organized programs to help youngsters are not doing the job. In fact, it is not illogical to conclude that they may contribute to the delinquency which we plan now to spend $30 million to combat.

Maybe after all less talk and more old-fashioned spankings with papa's belt and more of mama's tears might help the situation.

King Solomon's Logic Would Get Severe Test in State Department

BY MORRIE RYSKIND

A note from a reader cites some of my judgments and compares them — unfavorably, believe it or not — with those of "your illustrious ancestor, King Solomon."

Ryskind

In the first place, our family has never claimed direct descent from that celebrated king of Israel, though we have always been aware, what with the number of his wives and progeny, that the odds were no more than 60-40 against it. But we're a folksy bunch who are content to sit with the commoners and have nothing but scorn for the privileges and perquisites of the House of Lords. Besides, we don't have the necessary papers.

Wants Proof

If, however, the critical reader has any documentary proof, I'd appreciate his forwarding it. It wouldn't be a bad thing to hang up in the den.

Be that as it may, I owe it to my fellow craftsmen to point out that the problems the ancient monarch was called upon to resolve were petty indeed compared to those confronting the political commentator of today. With no disparagement, Solomon was more like a local police magistrate, whereas Lippmann, Moley, Goldwater and the rest of us have to deal with world affairs.

This is not to deny that, considering his times, Solomon did some excellent work. For example, his determination of the real mother in the famous case of the disputed child will unquestionably rank in history — even in Arthur Schlesinger's version — with some of the pronouncements of David. David Susskind, that is.

Lacked Some Aids

But he lacked the advantages modern science has given us. Thus, he found himself baffled by the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a ship at sea and the way of a man with a maid.

If we smile at his bewilderment, we do so charitably and not superciliously. After all, it was long after the king's reign that St. Patrick showed the world how to dispose of the snake situation; and we have had the Wright Brothers, Polaris and the Kinsey Report to help us handle the other matters that perplexed him.

But I cannot help wondering what he would have done had he been called upon to render judgment on the sophisticated juveniles currently in charge of our foreign policy. To a king who had a very definite foreign policy of his own and achieved a peaceful reign of some 40 years by following a straight line—he made his peace with Egypt by marrying the Pharaoh's daughter, which is something like the Ben-Gurions becoming in-laws of the Nassers — the obscure antics of our State Department would doubtless have seemed madness without a method, and he probably would have ordered some heads to fall.

He would have understood a policy, based on national interest, that either rejected the Russians or embraced them; but he certainly would have been flummoxed by this business of doing both at the same time.

And now the State lads are trying a new version of not letting one left hand know what the other left hand is doing. After pulling every string to make sure Gomulka and Tito would continue to get their regular allowance along with Sukarno, Nkrumah and the other south-paws, they suddenly go free enterprise and accuse Tshombe of being soft on Communism.

And the House Foreign Affairs Committee has just discovered that America's special contributions toward what is laughingly called the Congo Peace have been used to pay money owed the U.N. by Cuba, Albania, Bulgaria, Poland and Ghana. What would Solomon have done with those apples?

Buy Land for Texas, Keep South Happy

From The Atlanta Journal

It is going to be interesting to see if that pocket-sized real estate problem in El Paso will be worked out to the satisfaction of the Aexans and the Mexicans.

President Kennedy has said this country cannot continue to treat the question of who owns a disputed 620-acre tract there with "indifference" and hints Mexico has a claim to it.

Perhaps Mexico does have claim to the land. However, if all or part of it goes to Mexico, who is going to compensate the Texans for the damage to their state's prestige? After all, they didn't exactly go wild over the development when the admission of Alaska as a state had the effect of shrinking Texas to the second largest state.

Then, too, if the land is lost to Mexico, it is going to leave a fair sized hole in the El Paso tax digest. If it develops that Mexico has a legitimate claim to the land, our federal government would do well to buy it from Mexico and give it to Texas.

With the world situation what it is the United States cannot afford strained relations with our neighbor to the South — Texas, that is.

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

Pollled on whether they want a tax cut, a lot of people say no. Trouble with Americans, it's something you can't take a pill for, we don't want to get involved in it.

The Senate ends its filibuster and within two hours votes to spend $50 billion — a somewhat expensive way of proving that talk is cheap.

The Kennedys love the water so much, some people are calling the White House the executive marina.

The Supreme Court is on a three-month vacation. If you could hear what they're saying about you in church, you wouldn't show your face either.

This country has the world's highest standard of living, and if it weren't for the traffic, a guy might get home in time to enjoy it.

The government reports unemployment has dropped to a two-year low. In fact, Republicans say it's pretty hard to name something that hasn't.

Under the Capitol Dome

Redistricting Fiasco To Be Campaign Issue

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There appears to be very little quarrel anywhere with the idea that the 21 days of special session of the legislature, stretching over six dreary weeks, for the ostensible purpose of achieving legislative and congressional reapportionment was a fiasco.

It is difficult to remember another special session of the legislature that was quite as complete a failure, on the record.

Wyngaard

The question is: Whose fiasco was it? Is this the fault of the Democrats, who wanted the special session and insisted upon reapportionment, or the Republicans who control the legislature and who when they found that Democratic Gov. Nelson would not accept their bills, decided to shut up shop and return to their homes?

As in most complex political questions, it is difficult to assign responsibility precisely. Probably the basic responsibility rests with those voters in the 1960 elections who couldn't decide whether they wanted the Republicans or the Democrats in control at Madison, and resolved to have them share it and thus inevitably arranged a stalemate.

There are those who have their doubts that the people will be listening very carefully to the recital, but for what they are worth here are the contrary arguments of the parties.

The Democrats will say that the Republicans deliberately flouted their constitutional obligation during the regular session of the legislature and that when Gov. Nelson called the lawmakers into special session for the express and single purpose of reapportionment they insisted upon putting through a "corymander" that Nelson in good conscience could not accept.

HOW IT WILL GO

But the Republicans are not without a response. As they see it they have made a record of willingness to enact a reapportionment that would have been an improvement over the existing arrangements, and that they were "thwarted" by the partisan obduracy of their enemy in the executive office.

So sure are they that they can make their record believable, in fact, that they are already preparing a strong campaign against Nelson and Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds for "wasting" the substantial sum of money that was involved in the fruitless special session.

THE GROUNDS

The Republican case is strengthened, the GOP leaders believe, by the fact that Reynolds' petition for action by the state supreme court was repeated, and that the federal court master more recently has recommended that the federal courts dismiss the action for reapportionment by court order that the Democratic attorney general has brought there.

It now is reasonably evident that a court redistricting could not be achieved this year, and if the federal courts during the next fortnight sustain the referee's recommendation, it will be Reynolds' second defeat on the issue. The Republicans will be in the position of having the prestigious backing of the state and federal courts for their position, with some inevitable side effects in embarrassing the Democratic candidate for governor as well as the Democratic nominee for senator, as they assess the outlook.

It is pertinent to note here that Gov. Nelson, for one, is not wholly sure that the developments were favorable to the fortunes of the Democrats. He said the other day that he wished the federal courts had appointed their fact-finder to analyze the case before they asked him to summon the abortive special legislative session. In that event, he seemed to be musing, there probably would not have been a special session and the Republicans could not have blamed him for its futility.

Something More to Think About

From Tops Services

President Kennedy is reported to have called in White House Adviser Arthur Schlesinger and complained that the Harvard professor is writing too many articles for national magazines.

The President suggested that proceeds from the sale of the stories be contributed to charity in order to avoid "a conflict of interest."

Readers who have waded through some of the articles appearing in a national weekly wonder if the editors would have knocked down Mr. Schlesinger's door to buy the material had he not been connected with the President's office.

It is also to be recalled that military men in recent years have been called down for too many outside activities with typewriters. This brings up the first of two questions. Why should White House attaches capitalize upon their affiliation while another branch of the government is put in a muddle?

Mr. Schlesinger is also reviewing movies for the magazine "Show." He uses the projection room at the White House for special private showings. Now comes the other question. If Frank Sinatra, Peter Lawford or some of the other close Kennedy friends appear in the movies Mr. Schlesinger happens to review, and he happens to "pan" them, does this mean the White House will ban the magazine as was the case with the New York Herald Tribune?

One more question while we are about it. What qualifies someone in the White House as a movie critic?

Officials to Round Up Deserters

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Aug. 14, 1862.

The Secretary of War has issued an order making it the duty of the United States Marshals, Mayors, Chief of Police, Sheriffs, Postmasters and Justices of the Peace to arrest all officers and privates absent from their regiments, who are fit for duty, and to convey them to the nearest military post.

Five dollars reward is offered by the Secretary for each such arrest. This order went into effect on the 11th of August.

Over 200 officers and privates (both were put on the same footing) were arrested in New York and compelled to show their furlough papers or go to Governor's Island as deserters.

Other officers elected were George VanderVelden, vice president, Walter Doering, secretary, William Bauer, treasurer, Thomas Landry, John Verkuilen, Elmer Bohman, trustees, and Robert Rankey, John Crowe, William Van Ryzin, Arthur Wilkenberg and Arthur Marotte, board members. The chapter was installed with 22 active members.

President's Critics Say He Tries to Get Too Much Power

Too Early to Tell if Congress Or Executive Branch Dominant

BY BELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elihu Root, secretary of war in two cabinets, often characterized the enormous power of the presidency as a "battle-axe" and he went on to say:

"No man should swing a battle-axe as though it were a riding crop."

Today, critics of President Kennedy identify as one factor causing his difficulties with Congress.

Second of a Series

the allegedly injudicious use of the "battle-axe." His handling of the steel price-rise case last spring, when the administration moved like an awesome juggernaut, is the example most frequently cited. It is not the only one, however.

27 Requests

"A strong feeling has been growing in Congress," says rep. John Lindsay, R-N.Y. "that the Kennedys are trying to shut off debate. They have made basic who filters the enormous mass of grabs for power that are offensive business and gives priority to the conservatives and liberals problems. alike." (note that he made it He delegates authority widely. But he keeps a string on much of the major business and tends ment tabulated, as of June 1, a list of 27 requests by Kennedy which they describe as calls for "sweeping new powers."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says, "He (Kennedy) inherited enough powers to make his office a dictatorship, but one of the consistent patterns in this administration is the demand for more power."

Ancient Struggle

The struggle between the executive and legislative branches of government is an ancient one.

And one theory among students of the amazing American system holds that the nation moved only when the President is strong enough to dominate Congress. It is too early to tell whether Kennedy will emerge as a "strong president." At the moment, he is not dominating Congress. Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., says he is in a "state of disarray."

In the White House, however, Kennedy is his own chief of staff. There is no "assistant president" debate. They have made basic who filters the enormous mass of grabs for power that are offensive business and gives priority to the conservatives and liberals problems. alike." (note that he made it He delegates authority widely. But he keeps a string on much of the major business and tends to follow through himself. Ralph A. Dungan, special assistant at the White House, recalls that "he phoned me at home one night—it was about 10:45—to ask about a small detail of something we had in the works." Members of the Cabinet give similar reports.

Kennedy's day begins around 7:30, with breakfast and a stack of newspapers in bed. He soaks up an incredible amount of news, editorial comment and columns before coming to his office. Sometimes, he goes beyond merely reading a story. Mention a given news report and he is apt to say, "Yes, I read that and I know where he (the writer) got it."

His office day, seldom ends before early evening. A recent visitor, leaving shortly after 7 o'clock, found three others with appointments waiting to see Kennedy. Evidently, judging from reports of his aides, he sometimes works at night.

Marked Difference

A marked difference between this administration and President Dwight D. Eisenhower's appears in the office of the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, secretary to Eisenhower, would say, "The lid's on, boys." That told correspondents there would be no more White House announcements for the day. Kennedy's secretary, Pierre Salinger, can't always do that.

Same Characteristics

You find the same characteristics in some of those around Kennedy—especially his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, special counsel Theodore C. Sorensen, and Salinger.

Some others, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, and Abraham Ribicoff, who recently resigned from the Cabinet, may speak more deliberately. But they have the same dry, astringent manner in discussing an issue. Another hallmark is that this is a "shirtsleeves administration." Few wear coats in the office.

Tougher Job

In the White House today, along with Salinger, are some of the other professionals who played major parts in fashioning the campaign that elected Kennedy—Lawrence F. O'Brien, Kenneth P. O'Donnell and Meyer "Mike" Feldman.

ing votes out of the Congress is the lid on but it won't necessarily of anything, tougher than persuading the ordinary voter.

Kennedy recently said, referring to his troubles with Congress. "We should realize that some Democrats have voted with the Republicans for 25 years. And that makes it very difficult to secure the enactment of any controversial legislation." During the 1960 campaign, he said: "If we are really to move ahead in this country then a Democratic House and a Democratic Senate are necessary but not enough. Without presidential leadership and presidential cooperation, instead of vetoes, the Congress cannot do the job alone."

Not Popular

Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., commenting on Congress' legislative record, says, "Maybe some of the blame belongs there (in Congress). But we think most of the blame belongs on the Kennedy administration. The cause for the failure of the Kennedy legislative program is a simple one—it is not popular with the American people and it is not popular with Congress."

In that connection, a question arises—Is there a great demand, a compelling call, throughout the United States for some of the legislation the President has requested?

The proposed department of urban affairs, for example, GOP Rep. Lindsay says he voted "yes" on this, "because there is chaos in the conditions of many cities." But he concedes that it is too complicated (or sophisticated) an issue for the man on the street to have strong feelings about.

Reds Still Refuse Inspection Plans

Soviets Regard U. S. Proposal Just a Method for Spying

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—A spy in test ban treaty—is to have inspect the sky but not on the ground. That sums up the Russian attitude, as of now, toward the latest American effort to reach agreement with the Soviets on a treaty banning nuclear tests.
It dampens hope, built up over the past few weeks, that through a refinement in the American technique of detecting underground tests the two sides after 17 years of trying might agree on a test ban.

Belittle Proposal
On Monday the Russians once more belittled the proposal the United States had in mind.

In the old days the nations kept tabs on one another's big weapon development by man-spying. Now, through sensitive instruments, the nations can spy on one another by what happens in the sky.

A nuclear blast above ground can be detected thousands of miles away.

The United States was less sure its instruments were keen enough to tell the difference, in an underground disturbance, between an earthquake and a secret Russian test.

U. S. Argument
Over the years the United States has argued the only way to prevent cheating—if there is a test ban treaty—is to have inspectors inside the territory of the nuclear nations.

The Russians, calling this a spy system, have almost consistently said no. Which boils down to this: If you're going to spy it will have to be in the sky, not inside Russia.

Recently this country has developed its detection instruments to a point where it is believed the United States feels fewer inspectors would be needed in Russia, and fewer here.

Insist on Principle
Therefore, this country was ready to make new proposals and sent U. S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean back with them to the 17-nation disarmament conference at Geneva.

Nevertheless, President Kennedy made plain at his news conference last week that this country would still insist upon the principle of some inspection.

Dean, back in Geneva, discussed the latest American offer Sunday and Monday with Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin.

Same Old Plans
And Monday Zorin brushed it off. He said that Dean returned to Geneva with what appeared to be on the "same old American proposals" which Russia had turned down before.

Dean said he wanted to talk to Zorin some more before presenting the proposals to the full conference. All this made prospects for a test ban look as dim as always, although the need for it grows more urgent.

The United States, not to be outdone in developing new nuclear techniques, felt it had to resume testing after the Russians resumed last fall. This country is still testing.

Future generations, if there are any, may look back on all this as the most blazing example of international insanity in the history of mankind. But as of now both sides seem to think they're perfectly normal, if uneasy.

Military Plan Behind Soviet Fishing Fleets

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The Russian people presumably are hungry, and they seem to want some fish to eat. Is it plausible to believe that the waters adjacent to Europe have not any fish in them, and that this is why the Russians have been sending fleets in unprecedented numbers to cruise up and down the Pacific and Atlantic coasts of this country?

Lawrence

The real function of these ships and the equipment they carry are clothed in mystery. These vessels are of such size that they can conceal mechanical devices which can be used to interfere with undersea cables or to lay mines or to operate detecting devices to chart the course of American submarines.

There is undoubtedly a military objective in the sending of such large fishing fleets to American waters. It's true that outside the three-mile limit the seas are legally free to any country, but so is the sky above the Soviet Union. Yet not so long ago the Communists raised a big fuss when an unarmed U-2 plane made observation trips in space high above Soviet territory.

Quick to Condemn

The Russians are quick to condemn Americans for making what are called "provocative" speeches on military policy. But the Communists have not confined themselves to talk. They have taken an action with their fishing fleets which constitutes a real provocation.

Another questionable phase of the whole affair is what the Russians are up to in Cuba as they encourage the use there of certain fishing vessels for reconnaissance in American waters. A United Press International dispatch from Moscow the other day said:

The Soviet Union has agreed to provide free technical assistance to Cuba for the development of commercial fishing, the official Soviet News Agency Tass said today. The agency, in a dispatch from Havana, said a protocol was signed between the two nations covering details of the assistance.

Teach Fishing

"The agreement will cover the exploration of fishing possibilities in waters off Cuba and the instruction of Cuban fishermen in the techniques of commercial fishing," it said.

Just why should the Moscow government be spending its own money to instruct Cubans in the use of fishing vessels? Is it assumed that these acts will go unnoticed by American naval authorities?

Much of what the Soviets are doing with their huge fleets of vessels has come to light in speeches in Congress concerning fishing operations of the Soviets "right in our own front yard." On May 25, Sen. Benjamin A. Smith, D-Mass., described the massive intrusion of Soviet vessels at Georges Bank off Cape Cod and along the New England coast.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., spoke Aug. 3 of a "similar intrusion" along the Alaskan coast. He said nine out of the 61 Russian fishing ships in the Gulf of Alaska "could not be identified as to function." He added:

Like "United States"

"Dispatches from Russia proclaim that the Bering and Bristol Bay fleets are to be strengthened. These dispatches announced completion of five more large ships for use in these north Pacific waters, one a mother ship displacing 17,140 tons that will carry a crew of 270 persons."

Now let us see what is happening along our Atlantic coast. The most recent report from Georges Bank listed 168 Soviet ships operating there. Four of these were huge mother ships over 500 feet in length. These include the one I told Senators I had seen in the moving picture. It looks like the liner "United States" or the "Queen Mary."

"Each year the Russian fishing fleets move further south. This is the first year the Russians have fished in the Gulf of Alaska. Last year they sent only exploratory vessels there. It is the second year they have fished on Georges Bank. It is the second year they have fished in Bristol Bay and the third in Bering Sea areas just above Bristol Bay."

Standard Procedure

"In each case exploratory ships preceded the fishing fleets. It is a standard Soviet procedure. 'My colleagues in Congress from the states of North and South Carolina may find it of interest that last month Russian exploratory ships were cruising the coastal waters of those two states, observing and evaluating offshore stocks of Menhaden. If the Russians follow their usual pattern, they will be fishing there a year or two from now.'"

Senator Smith of Massachusetts supplemented the above with the statement that, only 15 miles from the shores of Cape Cod, American fishermen this spring encountered a huge Soviet fleet of over 100 vessels.

Face Competition

Several senators joined in pointing out that American fishermen

Soviets is commercial, though it is difficult to understand why they have to go so far away from their own coastal waters, or at least so far beyond the shores of Britain or France or Spain or Africa, and travel all the way across the Atlantic to get fish that are plentiful elsewhere, too. The mystery is so closely related to military operations that one of these days some further disclosures may be expected. (Copyright 1962)

Traffic Death Toll for July Reaches Five

Five people were fatally injured in traffic accidents in Outagamie County during July. This is the highest number in any one month for over two years. July 1961 took three lives, August 1960 claimed four. The two highest tolls in the last decade were February 1960 (the barn floor, seven feet below) and October 1958. Both months recorded six traffic deaths, according to the monthly report of County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps. Six other deaths investigated by the coroner were found to be the result of natural causes. An 80-year-old Appleton woman was found dead in her home, she had been dead for four days when lives during July. On July 6, a found. A 67-year-old Appleton man died of injuries sustained when he fell from a hay mow onto in their homes. A 73-year-old Appleton woman died in an Appleton bank. Three autopsies were performed to determine the cause of death. Two cremations permits were issued and four specimens were sent in for laboratory analysis. Washington Woman Granted Divorce Edward O. Thomas, 25, 1925 N. Laws St., and Nancy Kaye Sizer couple had no children. Thomas, 23, Washington, D.C., were divorced Friday in County Court, Branch 2. Mrs. Thomas charged cruel and inhuman treatment and was granted use of her maiden name. The couple was married Dec. 1, 1958, and separated Aug. 28, 1961. A property settlement was ordered. There are to be no alimony or support payments. The couple had no children.

Faulty Study Habits of Child Will Catch Up Sooner or Later

BY LEE J. NASON, ED. D.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California longed slump, the chances are that faulty study habits are catching up with him. Recently, I received this letter: Dear Dr. Nason:

Our son is a high school sophomore. He was an average student in his first few years of grade school. Then his work fell below average and continues to fall each year. His reading and comprehension are slow and inaccurate. What do you suggest is wrong? Mr. E. G. Eugene, Ore. Your son's poor reading habits probably are affecting all of his school work. I suggest that you try to help him increase his reading speed and comprehension in this manner: Have him skim through his entire assignment to get a general idea of what it is about. Then have him read the assignment rapidly, searching for key ideas as well as an understanding of what the author has written. Finally, be sure to praise him as his comprehension improves. Dear Dr. Nason: My son intends to enter a university this fall. He will minor in chemistry but he plans to go on to law school. Can you tell me how many new lawyers make good and really amount to something financially. How do law and chemistry compare as fields of promise? Mr. J. M. Rockaway, N. J.

Tuesday, August 7, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent A15 Whether your son makes good is entirely up to him. Top chemists and lawyers both are well paid. But one word of caution. If your son enters either field with the sole idea of making money, he probably will be a disappointment to you. Dear Dr. Nason: My child is in his freshman year of high school. Recently I was called in for a conference and shown his Differential Aptitude Test and Personality Record with the explanation that they give a college an idea of what type of person my child is. Are these tests really essential for college entrance? Mrs. J. W. Aulne, Kan. The personality tests given in the freshman year of high school are not a requirement for college entrance. The college admissions officer administers his own tests at the time a youngster enters college. The results of these tests are

Lawyer Named In Fight Over Winger's Fee

Nelson Designates Madison Man to Act for Treasurer

MADISON (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson named Laurence Hall, a Madison attorney, Monday to represent state treasurer Dena Smith in a legal fight over payment of the $3,500 fee of a special master in Wisconsin's reapportionment suit. Mrs. Smith refused to approve a state check covering costs reported by Emmert Winger, a former State Supreme Court Justice who was named master in the federal suit. The treasurer contended that since Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds brought the suit in behalf of five Waukesha citizens, they should split the cost of the federal action. Mrs. Smith is a Republican. Reynolds is a Democrat and his party's leading candidate for governor.

Court Writ Obtained "I cannot imagine why the state of Wisconsin should act as 'sugar daddy' for the other plaintiffs in this case," Mrs. Smith said Friday. Following her statement, the attorney general's office obtained a Dane County Circuit Court writ ordering her to sign the check or appear in court Tuesday and explain her reasons. Nelson said Mrs. Smith had asked that Hall represent her in the court action. And the governor said he appointed Hall because he considered him "a good, competent counselor." But the governor refused to jump into the controversy, saying: "It's their fight and they're going to have to resolve it." Nelson's appointment of Hall was announced at a morning news conference in which he again described the preservation of outdoor assets as "one of America's most crucial domestic problems."

Favors U. S. Program The governor said the federal government should play a more forceful role in meeting the problem. He recommended a $400 million to $500 million federal program of matching funds to "induce" states to launch outdoor resource preservation and development campaigns. The emphasis of such programs, Nelson said, should be on acquisition of outdoor assets "which if not acquired now could be lost forever." The governor said the development of acquired sites "could wait a bit." In reply to questions, Nelson singled out cleaning detergents as one of the major threats to fresh water assets. He said study at both the state and federal level should be given to their continued use.

White House Secretary Dies at 88

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Edith Benham Helm, who was White House Social Secretary to three Presidents — Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman — is dead at 88. Mrs. Helm had been in failing health for some time. She died Monday.

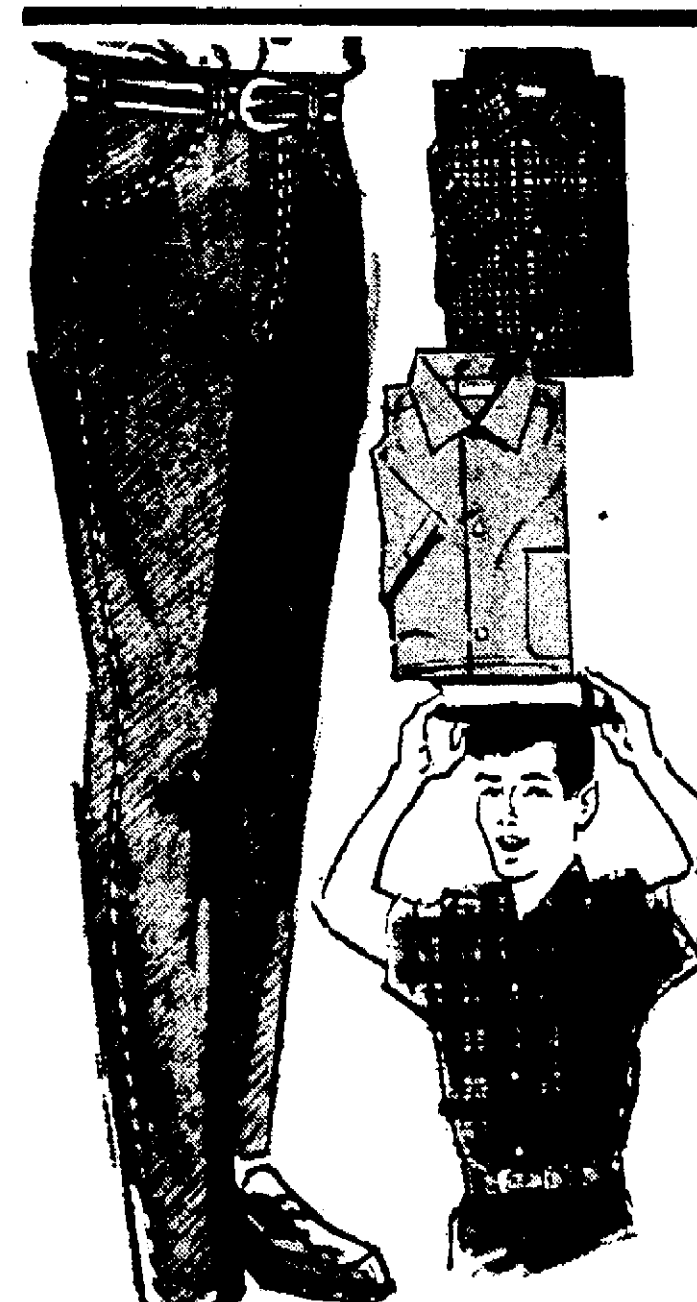

Of a seafaring family and daughter of Navy Adm. Andrew Ellcott Kennedy Benham, she married an admiral, James M. Helm, in the 1920s and withdrew from the White House social scene. Later she returned to help out Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in the first weeks of the Roosevelt administration but stayed on into the Truman administration. Mrs. Benham referred to her as "the indispensable woman."

Class of 1957 at Stockbridge High Has First Reunion

STOCKBRIDGE — The Stockbridge High School class of 1957 held its first reunion Sunday afternoon and evening at Steffen's in Quincy. All but two of the 18-member class attended the event with a total attendance, including husbands and wives, of 31. Carolyn Heller, Appleton, head of the reunion's planning committee, delivered the welcoming address. She was assisted in the arrangements by Mrs. Robert Wilson, the former Nancy Dietrich, and Mrs. Bennett Burg, the former June Ecker. Prizes went to Mrs. Earl Ecker, the former Nancy Oakley, for the most children, four, and to Mrs. Everett Bornemann, the former Dorothy Ruffing, for being the longest married. Special prizes were also awarded. The class's vital statistics show that 15 of the 18 members are married and have a total of 27 children.

Papers' Presses Roll After 116-Day Strike

Minneapolis Star, Tribune Shutdown

Cost City, Employees Many Millions

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)— Presses not estimate its own revenue loss. of the Minneapolis Star and Morning Tribune hummed again today after a strike had idled the plant 116 days.

The Tribune, with a weekday circulation of 229,481 and 672,162 Sunday, and the Star, circulating 301,333 evening newspapers, were shut down April 12 for the first time in history. It was the nation's longest major newspaper strike.

In a front-page statement to Tribune readers, president John Cowles and publisher Joyce A. Swan said "it is certainly good to be back."

Cost Considerable

They declared the cost of the strike had been considerable—to employees, business generally for lack of advertising, and to the reading public.

"Our employees who did not report for work lost more than $3 million in pay," the statement said. "Our 13,000 carrier salesmen and other distributors lost more than $1.4 million."

The Star and Tribune Co. did not estimate its own revenue loss. It carried an undisclosed amount of strike insurance.

Loss in Sales

A statistician for the Federal Reserve District figures there was a loss of $10 million in local retail and department store sales.

The papers announced a price increase from 7 to 10 cents for single daily copies and from 35 to 40 cents a week for home delivery in the city.

Of the 1,600 fulltime employees, an estimated 500 kept working at least four days. Most of those on strike or idled by it found full or parttime work elsewhere and unionized workers drew strike benefits.

Some Leave

Of 175 news and editorial department employees, 19 left for other positions and won't be back, said L. L. Cavanaugh, the firm's public service director.

Benefits to American Newspaper Guild members, who were not on strike, ranged from $30 to $75 a week. The ANG represents news and editorial employees, photographers and some office workers.

Teamsters Local 638, which triggered the strike, found jobs for its 93 fulltime and 85 parttime drivers with the Daily Herald or in other trucking operations. The Herald was launched May 1 by a local advertising executive, Maurice McCaffrey.

Bad for Community

McCaffrey said he was glad to see an end to the walkout "because any kind of strike like this is bad for the community." He said he will continue publishing the Herald.

"I don't think there's any question but that the lack of regular newspaper advertising media adversely affected the whole area," said O. D. Gay, executive vice president of the Minneapolis Downtown Council.

A government statistician said for the week ending July 28, department store sales were up 8 per cent from the same week one year ago in St. Paul but down 4 per cent in Minneapolis.

Contract Dispute

Local 638 initiated the walkout in a dispute over a new contract and were joined by four other unions. Several other unions honored the picket lines.

Agreements reached during the past several days provided in general for $5 weekly wage increases this year and $3.50 more next year, along with improved pension, holiday and other fringe benefits.

Sonic Booms To Continue in Milwaukee Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said today the Air Force had informed him that sonic booms in Wisconsin would continue until next April and that flights will become more frequent in September in preparation for the annual Operation Skyshield.

He said an announcement that the booms might end in the Milwaukee area within 45 days was erroneous.

Reuss and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., wrote Air Force Secretary Eugene Zukert last week protesting the booms.

About 1,200 damage claims resulting from the shocks have been filed from the Milwaukee and Madison areas in the last few months.

Pedestrian Hit by Convertible, Flung Into Its Back Seat

DETROIT (AP) — A top-down convertible struck and killed a woman pedestrian. The impact catapulted her body into the rear seat.

Gary Paves, 21, was charged Monday with leaving the scene of an accident.

Police quoted the youth as saying everything went black after the accident Sunday night and he could not recall that he kept on driving for 20 minutes.

The pedestrian was Mrs. Betty Sue Marshall, 39, mother of four children.

Danes Protest Reds' Nuclear Test Series

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Members of the Danish campaign against nuclear weapons staged a silent demonstration at the Soviet embassy Monday night protesting against resumption of Soviet nuclear testing.

Minding Your Business

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

Stenographer 'Helps' Salesman to Lose Top Spot in Contest, Defends Disorder

DEAR CY: I read an article lately on keeping neat at work, having your nails neatly done, and a cared-for look. I agree on all of this, but the article went on to say your desk should always be in good order. That is one I won't go along with. When I was a beginning stenographer, I was horrified at the desk of one of the leading salesmen. (He made about $35,000 a year.) Once, when he was gone, I neated it up for him out of the goodness of my heart. When he returned, he hit the ceiling. He couldn't find anything, whereas he used to know just where to dig into his disorderly mess for what he wanted. He claimed my "help" upset him so much he got nosed out of first place in the monthly sales contest.

MIRIAM H.

Most salesmen who meet prospects in their offices say an orderly desk is the clue to an orderly mind. Nevertheless, anyone who can earn $35,000 a year in commissions doesn't need a clean desk or a new way of thinking. "Helping" is an old excuse for interfering.

DEAR CY: Recently you answered an inquiry from a couple who complained they have been sending suggestions to businesses. They received only "thank you's" or no replies at all. In the first place, I think they were foolish. They should write the firms initially, to find out if they want any suggestions. Many do not, as they have their own paid staffs to do the thinking. But, you should now suggest this couple get paid by joining a new organization called "Finderhood". To become a member, "Finderhood" requires a $20 membership fee. Members get exclusive "Finderhood" reports and bulletins of things industry is searching for. When they find them, they can collect a finder's fee.

H. L. C.

DEAR H. L. C.: Although I have been in contact with this organization, my information on their activities is too incomplete for a recommendation. This is an advance fee deal, and I reserve judgment until true value is proven. Somewhere, somehow, in the area of marketing laymen's ideas, there is a place for a middleman. Is this it? It may be. I am going to wait and see.

DEAR CY: My husband got fired from an office job at a packing company. His boss told him they were cutting back on the payroll, and that, although my husband's work was good, they had to let him go. We believed this, because he was always at the office on time and went about his work without disagreeing with anybody. Lots of times he could have gotten angry and didn't. It was 90 days ago that he got fired, and no one else in the office has been let out. Should my husband try to get his job back, or keep looking for place, I think they were foolish. They should write the firms initially, to find out if they want any suggestions. Many do not, as

Remarks Don't Make Vacation Worthwhile

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks people get tired of hearing on their return from a vacation:

"Where have you been hiding yourself? I haven't seen you for ages."

"Vacations are okay in their way, but I'll bet actually you're kind of glad to get back to the old salt mine, aren't you?"

"Where did you go? I know you sent us a post card, but we couldn't read what it said."

"You just got back in time, Gilbert. The guy who took your place was a real fireball. The boss said he never saw a man with more new ideas."

"While you were gone, the office gang held a farewell party for old Jim in the stock room. I kicked in $10 for your share. Do you happen to have it on you?"

"You remembered to turn off the gas and close the windows all right, but you forgot to tell the milkman to stop deliveries. He left a total of 14 bottles, and I wonder if you'd mind coming over right now and getting them. They kind of crowd my refrigerator."

Weather Good-Here

"It's too bad you had such awful weather. Here at home it was clear and sunny every day you were gone."

"I hear you just got back from your vacation, Gilbert. I'm leaving tomorrow on mine. Let me tell you about it."

"Are you sure you spent your vacation at the beach, Mildred? You look so pale I thought maybe you'd just got back from giving a blood transfusion."

Here's the Bill

"No, I didn't mind caring for your cat while you were gone. But she took sick, and the vet said she needed several shots. Here's his bill—for $40."

"The only really important message that came while you were gone, Gilbert, was a long-distance phone call from your mother-in-law. She's arriving tonight to stay with you for a month, and she'll trigger squeezer will not reveal the true reason he is firing. He wants to make things as fast and painless as possible. Your husband should cruelly dissect his work habits to avoid the repetition of history. Could it be he openly agreed in the office, but fought to impede things behind the scenes? That's often a filling in the yes-man's smile."

Labor to Support Nelson, Reynolds in Fall Election

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Organized labor will endorse Democrats Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Atty. Gen. John Reynolds in the fall election, the chairman of the Committee on Political Education of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO said Monday.

Schmidt, a vice president of the state labor organization, said the committee was abandoning its practice of withholding endorsements until after the primary. He said that the committee's complete list of choices would be announced shortly.

Nelson is running for the nomination for the U.S. Senate and Reynolds for nomination as governor. Both are unopposed in the primary.

ATTENTION Residents of Kimberly

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co crews will be working in Kimberly this week to raise the voltage of electric service to the Village. You will notice Power Co. crews in your neighborhood making necessary adjustments to increase voltage and improve efficiency of transmission and distribution equipment. While changes are being made on your block you will be without service for a short 15-20 minute period. Work will be done in only one section of the Village at a time so as to cause a minimum of inconvenience to our customers. All work will be completed by Friday evening.

Harm Lurks in Many Household Products

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Yesterday we discussed dangerous fumes or chemicals in industrial use. Today let's stay closer to home, and consider the myriad of household chemicals now in use.

A fairly new Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act is now in effect, requiring that if compounds contain potentially harmful materials, these must be so labeled.

Is this really important? It is estimated that 600,000 children swallow harmful substances each year, resulting in 5,000 deaths, besides physical harm for others, some of which is permanent even if not fatal.

Specific Warnings

Cleaning compounds, waxes, mothproofing compounds, deodorants, drugs, pesticides, even cosmetics, can be dangerous if misused. The danger of children being poisoned is a greater peril than some of the diseases we discuss in this column, and I cannot in conscience refrain from repeating a warning from time to time:

Keep "ordinary" household compounds, medicines and drugs safely out of reach of young children.

Don't forget that youngsters prwl in the garage and basement. Don't leave gasoline, insect sprays, bleaches, laundry products where children can reach them.

For yourself, get in the habit of reading labels. Look for the words "Danger," "Warning" or "Caution" which in descending order indicate the risk.

Terms Defined

The Manufacturing Chemists Association has defined some of the important words:

Corrosive — A chemical which destroys living tissue by contact.

Economic poison — A substance used for destroying insects, weeds rodents, fungi, etc.

Flammable — Anything having a "flash point" between 20 and 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

Irritant — Any substance which on immediate or prolonged or repeated contact will induce an inflammatory rash not involving destruction of tissue.

Poison — A substance, contact with which will lead to fatal results, usually in a short period of time. (It points out that this used to mean substances taken by mouth; it now includes any mode of contact, particularly inhaling, but sometimes through the skin.)

Sensitizer — A material which ordinarily has no discernible reaction, but after contact or repeated contact may "sensitize" some individuals. Subsequently even slight contact can cause a rash or other inflammatory reaction.

Toxic — Anything which can cause personal injury or illness through ingestion, inhalation or absorption.

Harm, whether small or massive, lurks in many a familiar household product — unless you read labels, and take such precautions as are shown: wear gloves, have plenty of ventilation, avoid contact with skin or eyes, and so on.

Bump Won't Start Lump

"Dear Dr. Molner, Can a bruise of the breast start cancer or hasten development of a tumor that has already started? — Mrs. G. L."

Sometimes a bruise or bump calls attention to a lump that has been quietly developing, and the bruise is blamed for "causing" the tumor but there is no evidence to support this.

Proving Fatherhood

Note to C. H. S.: There is no blood test yet known which will prove who is the father of a child. However, because blood types of the parents govern the blood types of the children, it is possible to say, "This man could be the father," or "It is impossible for him to be the father."

Kimberly Borrows $50,000 to Meet Operating Outlays

Unforeseen Costs, Low Payments From State Force 3 Per Cent Loan

KIMBERLY — Village board members Monday night authorized the clerk-treasurer to get a $50,000 loan from Kimberly State Bank for operating expenses. The loan will carry an interest rate of 3 per cent.

Alvin Fulcer, village president, told board members it was necessary to float the loan to give the village operating funds until additional income tax appropriations are forthcoming from the state late in August and November. He said earlier income tax payments from the state were below those received in other years. Added to unforeseen expenses forced the community to seek a loan, he said.

A request from the Van Daalwyk Land Development Co. Inc. for annexation of less than one square mile from the Town of Buchanan to Kimberly was referred to the planning commission. The land is located east of the village limits, north of County Trunk Z.

Crossing Guards
The administrative committee was authorized to meet with school officials in the village to discuss the feasibility of hiring women crossing guards or furnishing flaher signal at intersection deemed most dangerous for school children. The group will report back to the board.

One member of the police department was authorized to participate in a juvenile delinquency course at Madison Aug. 28 through 30. Fire insurance on the village hall and sewage disposal plant was renewed with Wydevan and Sons Agency at a cost of $177.58 per year.

The board approved the water commission's plan to install a light atop the new water tank although civic aeronautical regulations do not require a light, since the tank is not of sufficient height to interfere with plane traffic.

Dutch Elm Treatment Looks Good

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A large scale test of a chemical injection system designed to protect elm trees against Dutch Elm disease has shown "very encouraging" results, the developer says.

Dr. Dale M. Norris Jr. of the University of Wisconsin said Monday that in a controlled test of approximately 1,200 elms in a residential area on Milwaukee's northwest side, half the trees were treated and half left untreated.

Six of the untreated trees developed Dutch Elm. Three of the treated trees also became infected, but Norris said these cases might have resulted from earlier exposure.

In addition to the Milwaukee test, some 1,000 trees in Waukesha, Madison, Racine and Delavan were treated with the injections this spring, Norris said. Twelve of these developed Dutch Elm, but again, Norris said, the cases might have been due to previous infection.

The chemical fights the same small bark beetles which transmit the disease from one tree to another. Dutch Elm disease also can be transmitted by the root of a diseased tree touching the root of a healthy tree.

Norris, who discovered the preventative use of the chemical, called SD-3562, said the results were not conclusive and that it still had to be determined how much of the chemical to use.

Byrnes Introduces Bill for College Cost Tax Deduction

Would Credit Taxpayer With 20 Per Cent of Tuition, Fees

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes, R., Green Bay, today introduced a bill which would permit a taxpayer to deduct from his tax bill an amount equal to 20 per cent of the cost of "tuition, fees and similar educational expenses" incurred by himself or his dependents, above the 12th grade level.

A top-ranking member of the House Ways and Means Committee which handles all tax matters, Byrnes said that the bill will cover tuition fees, laboratory fees and other educational expenses, but not board and room.

"A tax credit of 20 per cent has the same effect as the deduction in full of educational expenses for a taxpayer in the 20 per cent tax rate bracket," the congressman explained.

Outright Deduction
An outright deduction for educational expenses, however, would be of no benefit to the more than 37 million taxpayers who either use the tax tables or take the standard deduction instead of itemizing their deductions, according to Byrnes.

For this reason, he explained, allowing a tax credit representing 20 per cent of the educational costs would be the fair way to handle the deduction as it could be taken by the taxpayer regardless of the type of income tax form he used.

Byrnes, who is chairman of the Republican House Policy Committee, said the bill would cost $10,000 each.

tee, pointed out that his bill was in line with the Republican declaration of principles and policy which stated "tax relief should be given to those who bear the burden of financing education for themselves or others."

Last week, the Wisconsin legislator introduced a bill extending a similar type of 20 per cent tax credit to taxpayers paying premiums on health or hospitalization insurance for themselves, their dependents and also for their parents, whether they were dependents or not.

Appleton Man Pleads Innocent To Theft Charge

Duane Katke, 21, 614 1/2 N. Appleton St., pleaded innocent in County Court, Branch 2 today to a charge of burglary and theft.

Katke's trial date and the trial date of Richard Hahn and John Hahn, both formerly of Appleton, today in County Court, Branch 2 Hahn and Hahn have previously pleaded innocent of the same burglary charge.

The three men were arrested from the home of Reinhard Sabee, 728 S. Summit St., July 4.

The men are being held in Outagamie County jail for failure to post bond of $10,000 each.

Appleton Teen-Ager Receives Surprise Visit From Dutch Pen-Pal

BY LYNN HANNAGAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There was a visitor at the George Hankwitz household, 2122 N. Morrison St., last weekend, a visitor that 19-year-old Sandara probably never thought she would actually meet.

The caller was her pen-pal of some six years standing, twenty-one-year-old Fred Peelen of Den Haag, Holland.

Sandara and Fred were originally "introduced" through a New York concern, Youth of All Nations, which promotes correspondence between Americans and other peoples in an effort to better world understanding. Since the initial letters, the pair have exchanged views, color slides of their respective lands and even gifts and cards on birthdays and holidays much as any letter-writing friends would.

Hotel Business

Fred received his opportunity to come to the United States to open a hotel in Rotterdam. Here he will spend a year learning hotel administration technique at the Tarrytown Hilton in New York state, after which he will go on for a two-year course in hotel economics in Ithaca. Before starting at Tarrytown, Fred had just enough time to visit some American relatives and spend the weekend with the Hankwitzes.

The family rolled out the red carpet for their guest, giving him tours of everything from High Cliff Park to the Appleton Coated Paper Co., where Sandara is employed as a secretary. They also introduced Fred to water skiing, which he had never seen before, and to bowling, which he had never played but once although there are many centers for the sport in the larger cities in his native land.

Iowa Like Holland
Fred likes Appleton, "it looks like a nice place to live." He doesn't like New York; "too dirty, too noisy, no trees." And the area around Sioux City, Iowa, where several of his relatives live, "looks just like home, like Holland."

He was ready to admit having an affinity for hamburgers and plans to return home and seek the film, "West Side Story" which he has seen three times. One of the stars, Russ Tamblyn, was a guest in his home when the dancer-actor was in the Army in Holland.

Fred is familiar with American TV, because Holland's government-owned network carries such shows as Perry Como and Ben Casey. "... only we have them without the commercials." There are no commercials on Dutch television.

Fluent in English
Well versed in languages, Fred is fluent in English, French, German and Indonesian as well as his native Dutch. Although his proficiency in other tongues is a necessity of his chosen hotel profession, he added that the English, French and German are required subjects in the schools in his land, due largely to the number of tourists who come to Holland.

Fred, after some questioning, had to admit that traveling Americans were among the worst offenders in not knowing other languages, adding politely that he was learning other tongues. He also acknowledged the fact that the American ambassador to Holland, after several years service there, had been able to learn nothing more than "good - bye" in Dutch. He seemed, however, to feel no bitterness at this, claiming that the man does work hard at his job.

Man Sleeping in Yard Fined for Drunkenness

Earl Besaw, 59, 128 E. Franklin St., was sentenced to five days in the Outagamie County jail after he was arrested early Monday for drunkenness. He appeared in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, Besaw was found sleeping in a backyard at 1230 E. Wisconsin Ave.

Assessor Insures Large Tax Refund

Buchanan to Be Divided

Four Boards Will Meet on Breakup Of School District

KIMBERLY — School board members from Kimberly, Kaukauna, Appleton and Wrightstown will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the board rooms of the grade school to discuss the dissolution of the Town of Buchanan school district.

The boards will attempt to divide the assets and liabilities of the Buchanan district on an equitable basis among the areas presently incorporating part of the township district. Major problem is expected to be Spoel School, located on two parcels of land near the Appleton-Kimberly border.

According to an early deed, one parcel of land being used for school purposes is to revert to the owner when it is no longer used for schools. Thus the original owner or his heirs may claim property on which the school building is located.

Assessment on Appleton Residences Made Equal to Ratio on Business Stocks

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"I prepared Appleton's 1962 assessment roll in such a way as to insure the city a good-sized tax credit refund," City Assessor John Pierre said today.

He explained that if taxpayers protest higher tax payments because of higher assessments on residential real estate, they should remember that they will be receiving credit refunds from sales tax monies.

State law made it necessary to raise the residential real estate assessments, Pierre said.

The like in residential real estate assessment is mainly responsible for the $7,496,630 increase in Appleton's 1962 assessed valuation.

Need Equal Ratio
New tax laws say that if the personal property ratio is greater than the real estate ratio, the tax refund from sales tax monies will be less than 50 per cent of a municipality's tax levy on personal property, which includes merchants' and manufacturers' stocks.

For example, if personal property were assessed at 32 per cent of full value and real estate was assessed at 33 per cent, the amount of tax credit from state sales tax monies would be less than the 50 per cent foregone on personal property prescribed by state law.

Pierre explained that 50 per cent tax payment from sales tax funds will amount to 50 per cent of the total personal property tax levy only if the assessment ratio of personal property as a class is the same or less than the real estate ratio.

Allows Full Refund
The more the personal property ratio exceeds the real estate ratio the lesser will be the tax credit refund from the state.

If Appleton had less than a 50 per cent tax credit refund from the state, it would not be able to give a full 50 per cent credit refund to taxpayers who pay a levy on personal property stock.

Pierre pointed out that this makes it exceedingly important that personal property as a class be assessed at the same percentage of full value as is real estate.

Real estate owners get what is left over after the 50 per cent foregone on merchants' and manufacturers' stocks is paid.

Example Given
An example given by the supervisor of assessments for the state's Fond du Lac district shows how the formula works.

If the total tax levy on personal property in a city was $50,000 and the tax credit apportionment factor was 50 per cent, the tax refund from the state would be $25,000.

But if the apportionment factor is based on less than a 50 per cent ratio, the state would refund only the amount determined by the smaller factor.

If the tax credit apportionment factor was 33 per cent on $50,000 a total tax levy, the tax refund by the state would be only $16,500 or $9,500 less than under a 50 per cent ratio.

When multiplied hundreds of times to compensate for Appleton's assessed valuation, it is easy to determine the larger tax credit refund the city will receive under Pierre's assessment formula.

Area Lutheran Youth Meet

Walther Leaguers Convention Theme 'In Cross' Shadow'

EAU CLAIRE — Many Fox Cities teen-age members of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod spent August 3-5 in Eau Claire at the North Wisconsin - Upper Michigan District Convention of the International Walther League, the church youth organization.

The leaguers went as members of the Valley of Rivers zone composed of area congregations' Walther League societies. The Convention, centered around the theme "In the Shadow of the Cross," drew thirty-six delegates from six area congregations.

District Vice-President Fred Uech of Wausau was elected district president, Miss Delores Boldt of Green Bay was re-elected to the post of secretary.

Leaguers attending from Faith Walther League of Appleton were James Anderson, Peter Ankerson, Pamela Baldock, James Bertsch, Charlene Cooper, Elizabeth Hensel, Darlene Kline, Richard Kline, Mary Lee Knowlton, Joyce Maas, Barbara Mason, Henry Simon, Kathleen Verhage, and Suzette Zastrow.

Delegates representing Bethany Walther League, Kaukauna, were Mike Borg, Betty Busse, Betty Kuhn, Suzanne Schaff, Pat Tilly, and Kathy Urban.

Fremont Leaguers
Fremont area leaguers were Lucie Hahn and Caroline Brogaard of St. Paul, and Janice Tews, Rogene Brogaard, Yvonne Reinhardt, and Joyce Reinhardt from Zion Lutheran Church of rural Fremont.

Emmanuel Walther League of rural Waupaca had three delegates: Darlen Schoofs, Ellen Schoofs, and Arlene Schoofs.

Lois Luedtke and Shirley Patrie represented St. Paul Walther League of Manawa. Five Leaguers also attended from Trinity-Grace Walther League of Bear Creek.

Found Sleeping in Park

$100 Not $1,000; Man Being Held Nevertheless

Things that make a police officer gray:

Outagamie County Undersheriff Donald Heinrich Monday was called to investigate a report that a shabbily-dressed man had just walked into a Shiocton bank and asked for change for 100 one-hundred-dollar bills.

The man wanted the bills all in twenties, the telephone caller said.

Heinrich and Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelke, proceeding under the assumption that someone had stumbled across some long-lost bank robbery money, hastened to Shiocton where they placed Charles S. Clark, 28, formerly of Baltimore, Maryland, in custody.

Clark, who had been sleeping in a park near Shiocton, told Heinrich and Zuelke he had just visited a Shiocton bank, but had asked to change 100 one-dollar bills into $20 bills.

Clark is being held in Outagamie County jail for an investigation. He told police he found the money.

Local Boy Found Guilty of Damage To Erb Park Pool

A 16-year-old Appleton youth was found guilty today of causing damages to the Erb Park swimming pool on the night of May 30.

Thomas S. Roemer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roemer, 418 E. Grant St., will be sentenced Thursday afternoon by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

The school has an enrollment of about 120, and a teaching staff of four. It now has three classrooms. The charge of vandalism on June 22. Three other youths involved in the vandalism pleaded guilty.

Testimony showed that Roemer and the other youths climbed the fence about 1 a.m. at the Erb Park pool, and entered the girls' locker room where they damaged clothing baskets, furniture, and the pool identification tags in the amount of $33.

St. Matthews Plans Addition

St. Matthew Lutheran School, Appleton, is planning an addition of two classrooms, an office and storage space.

Bids for the addition are to be received within three weeks, and construction will start immediately.

One classroom will be put in use as soon as it is completed this fall.

The school has an enrollment of about 120, and a teaching staff of four. It now has three classrooms.

Major Steps to Ease Congested Traffic Outlined

Menasha's New Police Chief Brings Views to Council Meeting

MENASHA — Major steps to ease traffic congestion were outlined Monday night for the common council by Menasha's new police chief, Lester Clark.

The changes would extend from Curtis Reed Plaza at George Banta Co. north across the Racine Street bridge to Third Street.

Southbound traffic at Third and Racine streets would have a free left turn cycle to Racine by making Third between Racine and Milwaukee a westbound one-way street. Clark said left turns have been hindered by opposing traffic. When a new traffic signal, with a special left turn cycle, is received, it will eliminate the need for the one-way, he went on.

Southbound traffic on Racine would proceed until reaching the south end of the bridge, where right turns, as now, would continue unrestricted (except at noon and 4 p.m. when Banta traffic builds up.)

Southbound traffic entering Naymut. Keyes and Riverway would make a full stop in the inside lane, while now there is no restriction.

Free Left Turns
Northbound traffic from Ahnaip would stop in the curb but you'll help 2,000 or 3,000."

Pay Half of Legal Fees, City Advised

Former Mayor's Taxpayer's Suit Not Lost, Steffens Says

MENASHA — Payment of one-half of former Mayor John R. Scanlon's legal fees for his taxpayer's suit against the city and a bank will be recommended at tonight's Common Council meeting.

City Atty. Richard J. Steffens Monday night told the council payment of the fees will be imperative in order to allow the city to have a legal opinion stating that no unsatisfied judgments exist. The opinion is under preparation by Chapman & Cutler of Chicago for the $713,000 school bond issue passed July 17.

Steffens told the council that although the city lost, it won. "Seldom do you go to court and lose but gain."

The litigation brought by Scanlon succeeded in voiding the February 1960 attempted sale of National Bank and the concomitant trade-in of the present bank building, for a net sale price of $7,500. Scanlon lost in circuit court but won in his appeal to the state supreme court.

Scanlon's fees to be paid by the city and the bank are $548.80 for his circuit court action and $901.65 for the supreme court appeal, a total of $1,450.45. Steffens advocated the city pay half, $725.23.

Steffens saw four advantages to the city on the case. 1. The bank (which Monday announced a major downtown redevelopment program by erecting a new banking house on land now occupied by four old buildings) will "beautify Main Street as it never was before." 2. The city will not need to take a price of $57,000 for the park. (He and Scanlon noted sub-cash offers for the land.) 3. The city will not be obliged to take the present bank building in trade ($49,500 was the price in the voided transaction). 4. The bank may deed its present building to the city for $1.

County Police Expansion Deferred to Budget Session

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County sheriff and coroner's committee Monday decided to wait until the fall budget meeting of the County Board before asking for additional men for the traffic patrol.

Committee Chairman E. G. Steinhilber had advocated hiring one additional patrolman now and three more in the fall. The new man, if hired now, could be trained on the recently purchased motorcycle, Steinhilber said.

Steinhilber also noted there would be enough money left in the salary budget for an additional man for the rest of the year.

Other committee members felt applicants will be interviewed at the County Board would be more

Youths Burned Seriously When Device Fires

Witnesses Report Teen-Agers Tried To Light Cylinder

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Two youths were seriously burned Monday afternoon when an explosive device they were trying to light unexpectedly went off.

Reported in fair condition at St. Mary Hospital this morning were Thomas Tilkens, 19, of 1000 Helzer St. and Jerome Greenlan, 18, of 1548 Riverview Drive.

Both suffered severe burns about the face, neck, and arms. Tilkens also was seriously burned about the legs. Both were burned about 2:30 p.m. Monday afternoon while trying to light the device on long tail point.

The youths refused to give officers from the sheriff department a statement, but authorities put together an account of the accident from witnesses.

Set One Device
The two were at a cottage owned by Ernest Esidor, but rented by a relative of Greenlan. They had set off one device earlier and apparently were trying to light another when the explosion occurred.

Authorities were unable to determine what type device was being used. It was a gray cylinder about an inch in diameter and

Man Caught After Break-in

CLINTONVILLE — David E. Huebner, 21, 165 Auto St., is being held by city police for breaking into the Clintonville Elevator Co., 180 Bennett St., about 12:40 a.m. today.

Patrolman Douglas Schoenike spotted Huebner going through a desk in the firm's office. He raided another man, Henry Steenback, to assist him and then attempted to arrest Huebner, police said.

Police said Huebner ran out of the building. The two men pursued Huebner through back lots. Schoenike said he recognized the man and called for him to stop. When Huebner didn't stop, Schoenike said he fired his revolver three times into the air. The man would not stop. Steenback finally caught Huebner and the two took him to the police station from the left lane and collided with another car.

Lecker was examined by a doctor, but refused to take a drunkometer test.

Tipsy Driver Fined $200

Appleton Man Arrested by Police After Accident

Donald R. Lecker, 34, 3501 N. Meade St., pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving Monday before Judge Gustave J. Keller, Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, and was fined $200 and his license was revoked for one year.

Lecker was arrested by Appleton police Friday about 5:05 p.m. at the intersection of Wisconsin Avenue and Richmond Street three times into the air. The when he was involved in a minor accident. According to police, Lecker attempted a right turn from the left lane and collided

Marriage Voided In State, Couple Put on Probation

A Town of Oneida couple whose Illinois marriage was ruled void in Wisconsin courts because of an arrearage in welfare payments was placed on probation Monday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2, for living together.

Miss Ina Pittman, 21, and Alvin Bain, 33, both of route 2 DePere, changed pleas to guilty on a lewd and lascivious conduct charge. The couple was arrested in the Town of Oneida in March. They have three children.

Miss Pittman was sentenced to six months probation, Bain to 364 days.

Bain was divorced in Green Bay four years ago and ordered to pay $120 per month for support of four children. Bain told the court he owed "several thousand dollars" in back welfare payments.

several inches high, apparently with a fuse on one end. Witnesses said they saw the two boys crouching over the device, trying to light it. Tilkens was standing directly over it while Greenlan was slightly off to one side when it exploded.

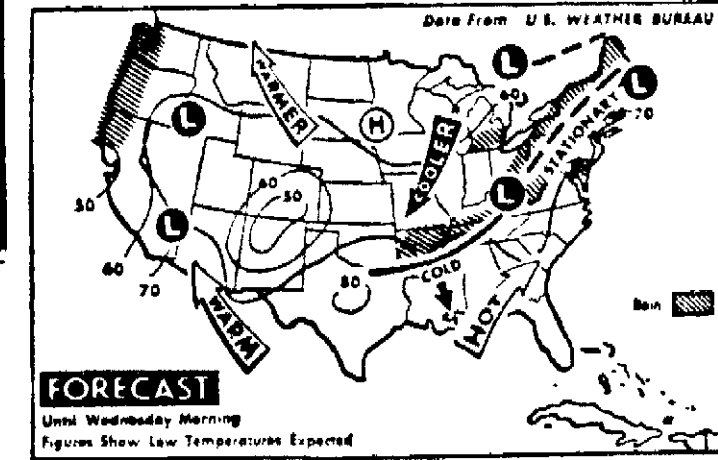

They had struck several matches in an attempt to light the fuse when the device suddenly exploded.

Two young boys playing nearby said it sounded like a "whistler shooting into the air." Another witness said he heard "a loud explosion and saw lots of white smoke." She said she ran to the boys and asked if she could do anything. One of the youths replied "call an ambulance."

They were taken to St. Mary Hospital where two physicians treated their burns.

Novel Bathroom Divider

Until shelves pull out from their surprise hide-away, this divider seems to do nothing but divide. The front of the storage structure is as deceiving as a move-able panel in a mystery story — pushed back into place, it closes the end of a free-standing partial wall.

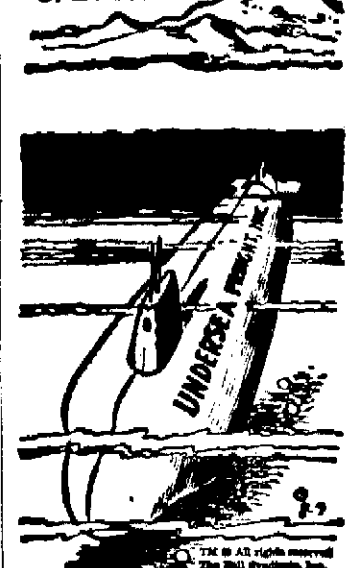

Completely hidden inside the wall, the storage structure is a neat file for enough towels to fill a sizable cabinet, a file on wheels which rolls out smoothly to make all of the shelves reachable at the time. This bathroom becomes self-sufficient with the addition of the towel file — not an inch of space in the hall linen closet must be used for bathroom supplies.

Plan for College Costs Now

If you're faced with college in the future for your youngsters, better sit down right now with the family piggy bank. College costs are going up every year and a regular savings plan is a must. If Junior and his sister are going to enter those ivy-covered halls.

While the college population is doubling in the next 10 years, the cost of four years on campus will be doing the same thing. By 1970, a college education will cost twice what it does today. Current national surveys show price tags ranging from $2,360 to $13,500 as four-year-total costs.

Never Too Early
With these kinds of figures in the future, you can't begin too early. In fact, many families start a child's savings account before the ink dries on the newborn's birth certificate. Yet, because there are always at least three or four places to put each dollar, such savings never seem to grow steadily enough. Recent national polls of over 7,000 families revealed that more than half had neglected to save for the day when the family treasure chest would be tapped for the price of a bachelor's degree.

Failure to plan a savings program and stick to it was shown to be the main cause. Because bills and the temptation of other luxuries can so easily divert dollars from your "untouchable" education fund, review the "forced savings" advantages in endowment education policies.

Just because this kind of savings agreement does require you to deposit a regular amount of money each month as a premium payment, it provides the strongest kind of an answer to the problem many families share — failure to stick to a savings schedule.

Because the amount to be saved is set by you in advance so that you can decide how much you need to budget, the earlier an endowment is started the better. That way, the slice of payroll you tuck for the education fund can be kept to a minimum. Most endowments are developed so that they will mature in 18 years but they can be started anytime during the child's early school years. The problem in delay is that you may have only 10 or 12 years to pay in order to have the fund ready right after high school graduation instead of having 18 years to accumulate the amount if you start as soon as the child is born. Educational endowment policies can include a clause that will provide the full amount needed in

Members of AHS Class of 1922 Meet to Renew Old Friendships

Appleton High School graduates of 1922 caught up on news of their former classmates Saturday evening when a reunion was held at the Elks Club. Members from California to New York returned for the event and registered at 5 p.m. A cocktail hour preceded the 7 p.m. dinner.

Robert Currie, Appleton, was general reunion chairman. Master of ceremonies was John W. Roach, Madison.

Pictures of the classmates, taken during their school days, were among the highlights of reunion festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Clark, Appleton, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Alk, Chicago, Ill., were among those attending the Appleton High School Class of '22 reunion Saturday evening. Table centerpieces incorporated miniature diplomas. At left, during the cocktail hour, are Mrs. Esther Smith Weitermann Racine, Miss Paula Abel, Boston, Mass., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Abel, Mrs. Anna Walter, St. Petersburg, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Abel, Glens Falls, N. Y.

November Rite Planned by Engaged Pair

MENASHA — Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Stevenson, 308 Ninth St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Charles E. Beilfuss. He is the son of Charles Beilfuss, Wauwatosa, and Mrs. Gertrude Lattin, Ventura, Calif.

Miss Stevenson was graduated from Menasha High School and is employed at Allis Chalmers International, West Allis. Her fiancé, a graduate of Wauwatosa High School, is employed at Badger Railing and specialty Co., West Allis.

The couple will be married Nov. 17 at St. Timothy Lutheran Church.

Marriage Promises Exchanged

Girard R. Johnson Weds Mary Smith

HILBERT — Nuptial promises were exchanged in a 2:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday by Miss Judith Pasewald, daughter of Mr. and Lyle Pasewald, and Jerome Ruppenthal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruppenthal. The Rev. Martin Schneider performed the rite at St. Peter Lutheran Church. Miss Carol Luesteen, Chicago, Ill., attended her cousin as maid of honor.

Girard R. Johnson claimed as his bride, Miss Mary Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Smith. La Crosse and Pepin in an 11 a.m. ceremony Saturday at the First Methodist Church, Peppin. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond N. Johnson, 1805 S. Oneida St.

Arrange Flowers In Sea Shells

Sea shells with their wide variety of shapes, colors and textures, make wonderful containers for fresh summer flowers. So if you're planning a seaside vacation or a weekend visit to the seashore, collect some of the more attractive shells.

Tiny shells and other fascinating bits of marine life, such as little star fish, coral or other hardened marine pieces, also are exceptionally attractive as accessories in large flat and clear glass containers used for flower arrangements.

Fill the shell with water to make sure it won't leak. Seal any holes with paraffin. Then insert into the shell a pre-saturated foam flower holder cut a little smaller than the shell. Stick flower stems into the holder and add water. Sea shell flower arrangements will give your home a cool look these hot summer days, and serve to remind you of those pleasurable days at the beach.

Mrs. Ruppenthal of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jeanette Ruppenthal, Brillion, and Mrs. Elizabeth Grenzer. The bride's sister, Miss Susan Pasewald, was flower girl and the bridegroom's cousin, Steven Grube, acted as ring bearer.

Best man was Andrew Hopfensberger. Robert Ruppenthal, Brillion, a brother of the bridegroom, and Kenneth Grenzer, served as groomsmen. The bridegroom's brother, Thomas Ruppenthal, and Gerald Pasewald, brother of the bride, seated the guests. A reception and dance were held at Kleist's Hall, Potter. A wedding trip through the western states is planned. The couple was graduated from Hilbert High School. The bride attended the Accredited School of Beauty, Green Bay. Her husband served three and a half years in the Navy and is proprietor of the Hilbert Bowling Alleys.

If your family likes onion flavor add a little minced onion to the chopped eggs being used in a salad or sandwich filling.

Pair Weds in Candlelight Ceremony

KAUKAUNA — Emmanuel United Church of Christ was the setting at 7 p.m. Saturday for the marriage of Miss Diane Mac Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val Wheeler, 211 Whitney St., and LeRoy Schoen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Schoen, New London. The single ring candle light ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roger Wetzel.

Miss Daniel Van De Loo, Shawano, attended her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Loretta Kelsey, Mrs. William Grelson, and Mrs. Edward Jensen, all of Milwaukee. Miss Sheryl Johnson served as flower girl. Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Duane Schoen, New London. The bridegroom's cousin, Darrel Welke, William Grelson, both of Milwaukee, and Robert Abraham, Manawa, acted as groomsmen. Gordon Wheeler, a brother of the bride, and Bruce Schoen, New London, the bridegroom's brother, seated the guests. The bridegroom's brother, Steven Schoen, New London, lit the candles. Darby Club Darby, was the setting for a dinner, reception and dance. The couple will reside at 3016 N. Booth St., Milwaukee. Her husband was a graduate of Kau High School, Manawa, and is employed at American Motors, Milwaukee. The couple will be married Nov. 17 at St. Timothy Lutheran Church.

Appearance Can Matter
BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
"Who cares about appearance?" you ask when you're fresh out of school. "Reality is what matters." Don't be so sure. If you're a bridge player you must watch out for appearances. West opened the six of spades to the ace, won the spade return with the king, and continued with the nine of spades to drive out the queen. West chose the nine to show that his side entry was in a high suit; he would have led the deuce of spades at the third trick if his entry had been in diamonds.

Unfortunately East, no expert, didn't know that the nine of spades meant anything special is available. You would make the guidance to defeat the contract. South naturally went after the clubs, leading the 10 to a finesse East held up, hoping to get a signal from his partner on a later club trick.

Trouble
South continued with the nine of clubs, and West ran into trouble with appearances. If he tried to play an encouraging heart, his three would look like a discouraging signal; and if West tried to play a discouraging diamond, his eight would look like a come-on. For lack of anything better, West did discard the three of hearts on the second club. East won with the king of clubs and promptly returned a diamond, relying on the discouraging appearance of the low heart.
South managed to run eight tricks before he had to give up. He could have been held to six tricks but for the misleading appearance of West's cards.
Incidentally, West was responsible for the trouble his partner ran into. West knew that his partner was not an expert and therefore might not read the meaning of the nine of spades. If West had allowed South to win the second trick, East could have taken the king of clubs promptly and led his remaining spade. There would be no further problem.

Daily Question
You have opened the bidding with one club, and partner bids one heart. It is once more your turn, since the opponents pass throughout. You hold: S 7; H K J 10 6; D Q 6 4; C A Q J 5 4. What do you say?
Answer: Bid two hearts. This is an underbid, but no other bid is available. You would make the same bid if one of your low clubs happened to be a low spade. If

Loaf of Bread Forms Holder For Flowers
If you're having friends in for a "cookout," try an unusual do-it-yourself flower arrangement that promises to surprise and delight your guests, and to help make your patio dinner a long-remembered affair.
Arrange a mass of brilliant summer flowers in a loaf of French bread! Simply hollow it out, line the inside with aluminum foil, and partially fill with blocks of a commercial foam flower holder presaturated with water. Then insert flower stems into the foam holders and add water. As a finishing touch, use any big green foliage — such as large magnolia leaves — to form a decorative mat under the French bread.
The flowers will stay beautifully fresh for days, hence this unusual arrangement can serve "double-duty" outside and inside your house.

Giddy footwear is not always the reason for aching feet. Some feet are overly tender, owing to a weakness. Also some women carry too much weight for even strong feet to support with comfort.

In such instances the feet, however well-shod, tire easily and begin to hurt. Those who suffer the condition can find temporary relief with a hot Epsom Salts soak, followed by a brisk towel massage. For an effective massage: Cradle the arch of one foot in a terry towel extend the leg fully and, by pulling back and forth on the towel, massage the entire surface of the sole for a full minute. Then take on the other foot. Finish with splashes of chilled rubbing alcohol.

Caring For Paper Lamp Shade
BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: I have a large table lamp with a silver metallic paper lamp shade. What type of care does this need?
A: This type of shade just needs dusting (or vacuuming). To keep the paper from drying out and becoming too brittle treat the surface occasionally with a mixture of one tablespoon of turpentine to a half cup of paraffin oil. Be sure to wipe off any surplus oil carefully after 10 minutes.
Alcohol Proof Finish
Q: We have an old wooden piano bench we want to cut down and use as a refreshment table. What kind of finish can we apply that will be alcohol proof?
A: Use a fast-drying, synthetic "table top" varnish which is resistant to heat and cold, as well as alcohol. Follow manufacturer's directions on the varnish container carefully. Before applying new finish, for best results remove the present finish down to bare wood, then sand satin-smooth and wipe up dust.
Door Swells
Q: We have trouble with the door between the kitchen and dining room. During the summer new home. How can these be re-burned season, the door swells and it is hard to close the door; during the winter the door fits and is easy to close. How can this be overcome?

A: Moisture is entering the door and causing it to swell; probably the upper or lower edges have been left unfinished. Remove the door from its hinges and apply a finish coat (paint, shellac or varnish) completely over all surfaces to prevent the entrance of moisture. This should be done while the door is in a normal state and works smoothly.

Your Problems

Reader Claims Best Cure for That Roving Eye Plenty of Rope

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Just a word to that old goat who said: he had outgrown his wife, and compared her with a pair of shoes: Old geezers don't outgrow shoes — they wear them out. And that's probably what happened to his wife.
My husband and I married young and started with nothing. I worked alongside him for 20 years. In addition to keeping a home and raising the children I matched him hour for hour in the business. As I look back I don't know how I did it. After our children were raised and we didn't have to worry about money, he began to fancy himself a ladies' man. He fell for a girl young enough to be his daughter. I told him if he wanted to make a fool of himself to go ahead.
Within three months he was back. The new shoes almost crippled him. He begged me to forgive him, and I did. Now he is behaving himself and I'm sure he's happy to have his comfortable shoes back. — Nuff Said
DEAR NUFF: A low how to you for having the maturity and courage to sweat out your husband's second childhood. Most women would have given this heel the boot.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a boy 16 and never liked a girl, until I met Mary. She came from another school last year and I fell for her right away. Lots of other guys fell for her, too. She is very popular.
I was afraid to ask her out because I didn't want to get turned down. A few weeks ago I was invited to a picnic and hayride and was told to bring a date. I got up the nerve and asked Mary to go with me. When she said yes I was on top of the world. I wanted to make our first date a great one so I decided to surprise her with a gift. I bought a very nice bracelet and had her initials engraved on it.
Yesterday she called to say she had changed her mind because she didn't think she liked me well enough to spend a whole afternoon and evening with me. I was very disappointed.
Should I give her the bracelet anyway? It has her initials on it and I don't have any use for it now. — B
DEAR B: Don't give her the bracelet. Keep it as a reminder — in case you're tempted to go overboard for another doll.
A gift on a first date makes no sense. It would have appeared that you were trying to buy the girl's affections. So, in a way you're lucky she broke the date. It saved you from making a foolish blunder.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm no kid (26) and always thought I knew the answers. Now I'm stumped and my head is breaking from all the advice that is being poured on from relatives.
I was in love with a beautiful girl before I went into the service. She wanted to get married before I left but I decided against it.
She wrote wonderful letters (about five a week) and I used to cross out the days on the calendar until we would be together again.
After 14 months I came home. My girl was waiting for me at the bus depot with my folks. I was stunned when I saw how much she had changed. She seemed heavier and older. That night she told me she had a baby just five weeks before I got home. The baby lived only two days.
It turns out my family and friends knew all about it and decided not to tell me till I got home. My folks said this girl had always been a tramp and everyone knew it but me. She claimed she missed me so much she had to go out to keep from going crazy. I think I still love her, but

Keep Pierced Ears Clean

If you have pierced ears, be sure to keep the channels "surgically" clean.
To wash them, first coat the ear wires of your earrings with soap, and moisten the lobes. Then gently rotate the wires back and forth in the channels to wash away perspiration and grime. To rinse, squeeze clean water around the lobes with a washcloth or a sponge.

Cleaner Game

To keep rubber or composition golf club grips clean, wash them off with soap or detergent suds and water.

I'm not sure. She wants to get married right away. What do you think? — Blasted

DEAR BLASTED: I think you'd better hold the phone. Buddy Boy, Date others, and this girl, too, if you like, but forget about marriage for at least six months. You need time to get your bearings. The odds against a successful marriage with this girl are pretty heavy. She was unspeakably deceitful and you'd probably find it difficult to trust her again.
Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well Liked," enclosing your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Household Hints to Ease Work, Care for Clothes

BY ISABEL DU BOIS
Chicago Daily News Service

"We have a problem that has caused my wife so much frustration that I am determined to end the annoyance.

"We have a bathtub drain that runs so slowly as to be maddening. Compounds don't strike the obstruction and water continues to only trickle past, taking forever to empty the tub. Is there anything I can do or should I just call the plumber?"

Just call the plumber. And quick. I imagine your wife's wrath if someday the tub refused to drain and she was forced to take a bath in second-hand water.

"Someone has given me a lovely piece of old pewter but it's dull and lacks the usual luster. I've tried silver polish but it doesn't quite do the trick. What is the best thing to use on pewter to give it a warm patina?"

A commercial copper cleaner (look in your grocer's shelves) usually does a better job on pewter than silver polish. Clean with the same care you would a piece of silver.

"I washed my white kid gloves in lukewarm water with milk suds and they turned yellow and stiff. If you have any solution I would appreciate your advice."

I trust the gloves were the washable type. Some are and some aren't, you know. Usually those that are are so stamped inside.

To restore the gloves to their original condition you will need to work them. Put one on, massaging the kid as you do. Continue to work it until the so-called yellowness disappears and the glove becomes soft and pliable again.

It takes time, I warn you. Lots of it. All washable kid gloves turn out this way.

The next time try one of the special glove washing compounds (available in department stores). Such compounds contain lanolin, which helps to keep leather soft by replacing some of the natural oil in the kid that comes out in the washing process.

Spit Roasting

If you plan to roast a bone in roast on a spit in the oven, have your meat man cut the ribs short. Five to seven inches from the hipe bone to the end of the ribs is a good length. The spit should be run through the roast parallel to and close to the ribs. This helps to make the roast balance well as it turns. An oven temperature of 300 to 325 degrees is recommended for roasting beef.

Air Dry Bulbs Before Replacing

Is your home equipped with such modern installations as luminous ceilings, or corrugated plastic sheeting or panels which diffuse light for a daylight effect? Here is a tip from the professionals who install indirect lighting. After washing with soap or detergent suds, always let such plastic items air-dry before replacing them.

Avoid wiping because rubbing from the air.

Asphalt Floors

Even though asphalt tile is a tough, attractive flooring, regular care is required to keep it from getting scratched and shabby. Wash it regularly with thick warm soap or detergent suds skimmed from the top of the pail, and rinse with a mop wrung out of clear water. Self-polishing wax is the best type for asphalt tile floors. It creates static electricity which acts like a magnet to attract dust from the air.

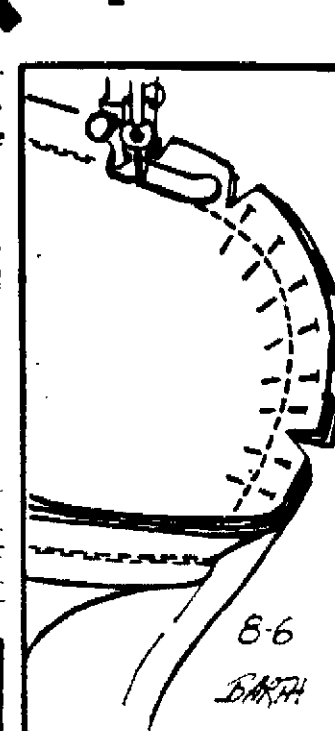

Water Bottle Proves Cooling

Here's a bedtime trick that practically insures a good night's rest. Fill the hot water bottle with ice water, and slip it between the sheets a few moments before you retire. In combination with a pre-bed bath and fresh nightclothes, this cooling trick is effective in even the hottest weather.

SEAMS TO MAKE

Recently, I described the cutting of a chair slipcover and how to pin and fit the cover to the chair. Today, I'll give the final steps, how to sew the slipcover together. At this point, your slipcover is completely pinned together. Leave all the seam pins in place. Remove the pins that are holding the fabric to the upholstery of the chair. Unpin one back seam of the chair where the back and front meet.

Sewing Up Slipcovers

The zipper will go here, beginning two inches from the top and going right to the floor. Gently lift the slipcover off the chair, being careful not to loosen the pins.

When you sew the slipcover together, follow the same order as you did when you pinned it together. First unpin the seam that joins the back and inside back. Turn the fabric wrong side out as you would a pillow slip.

Baste welting or trim on right side of fabric on one same edge, one inch from the cut edge with the finished edge of the trimming down. Stitch the trimming to cover the length of the seam. Now bring the opposite side of the seam, right sides of fabric together, and pin.

Place fabric on machine with stitched side up and sew along line of stitching (see illustration). This will give you a straight and neat line, and will avoid puckering seams. Don't try to sew the trim into both sides of the fabric at once. Follow this procedure for all seams except for tuck-ins at back, sides and curve inside back of chair.

You'll find that there will be a little fullness where side tuck-ins meet back tuck-ins. Lay the extra fabric in small folds at the corner and stitch side seat tuck-ins to inside arm tuck-ins.

To attach the skirt of your choice, stitch the welting or trimming along the 8-inch chalk line (marked on the bottom of the slipcover when cutting it out) with the finished edge of the trimming up. Pin the right side of the skirt to the right side of the slipcover and stitch as in the above instructions.

Notes for cutting skirts: remember to mark seam line for attaching skirts by chalking over 8 inches from floor all around

Kitchen Island

Many kitchen planners today recommend "islands" when remodeling large kitchens. If properly arranged, they reduce steps between the sink and appliances. There are many styles of ranges that can be built into a kitchen island. They are designed to be surrounded by cabinets and to provide a neat, compact appearance. Hoods also are available to take care of grease and cooking odors — and they can add a decorative note to the kitchen.

the chair. Cut skirts 10 inches wide, allowing one inch for hem and one inch for seam joining. For shirred or ruffled flounce, the fabric is twice the distance around the chair at eight-inch line.

For box pleats, allow up to three times fullness.

For kick pleats at corners, measure distance around the chair, plus 64 inches extra. Cut band of fabric 18 inches wide and as long as necessary. Fold band lengthwise and pin in fold. Each side of kick pleat folds back eight inches.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

My highly conservative husband and I attended an evening party where the hosts had a dancing teacher to instruct us in the "Twist." We refused to join the group — I, diplomatically, but my husband rather rudely. I fear we will never be welcomed in their home again. What do we do now? I don't want to lose the friendship of this couple.

Louise Davis Answers: As though nothing happened, I suggest that you invite your twist-party host and hostess to your home for dinner or an evening party. Your experience shouldn't ruin a real friendship. I advise that you don't initiate the subject of your refusal to join in the "Twist." But if either of your guests do, no doubt you will all apologize to each other without making a serious issue of it. Before you had the opportunity to accept or decline, your hostess should have told you the nature of their party at the time you were being invited. If the "Twist" had been an afterthought, it would have been better if she had called you again to inform you of the plan, thus offering you the opportunity to beg out with a rain check for another gathering that would be less physically active. I have an idea that your host and hostess realize that they were carried away with enthusiasm, then later understood that many people have no desire or intention to learn the dance.

Bob Shaw Pitches 13th Win of Year

Burdette and Cubs' Koonce Duel Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The sixth-place Milwaukee Braves are making a bid to move up in the National League standings at the expense of their second division brethren.

The Braves closed within three games of the idle St. Louis Cardinals to fifth place by defeating the Chicago Cubs 4-1 on Bob Shaw's masterful four-hitter Monday night before a crowd of 13,303 at County Stadium.

Shaw struck out seven and walked only one in hurling Milwaukee to its fourth straight victory.

Owner of three shutouts in 13 victories, Shaw missed a chance for another whitewash effort in the fourth when George Altman lined his 17th homer, a drive just inside the right field foul pole, with two out.

Ellsworth Wild
The Braves gave their 28-year-old right-hander all the cushion he needed by capitalizing on Chicago southpaw Dick Ellsworth's wildness in the first inning.

Ellsworth walked Roy McMillan and Tommie Aaron and then let both move up on a wild pitch.

The Braves collected a hit in every other inning except the third and seventh, but were unable to score again until the eighth.

T. Aaron led off the inning with a line drive single off shortstop Andre Rodgers' glove. Mathews struck out, but Henry Aaron doubled to left center, sending his kid brother to third and extending his personal batting streak to six games.

Joe Adcock was walked intentionally, but Lou Johnson crossed up the Chicago strategy by blooping a double to right, scoring the Aaron boys. Don Elston then relieved Ellsworth and retired the next two batters.

Shaw, who has lost eight, averaged a 2-1 setback by the Cubs earlier this season as he lowered his earned run average to 2.29 in 181 1/3 innings. It was his 12th complete game in 22 starts.

Lew Burdette, owner of an 8-7 record, will attempt to keep the Braves' winning string intact tonight. His probable mound opponent is rookie Cal Koonce, who has an impressive 9-4 mark for the Cubs.

Must build a winning Davis Cup team.
"Chuck already is close to being the best amateur player in the world," said Gonzales. "The way he played here I'm not sure he isn't ready to take Rod Laver (the Australian who already has won the Australian, French and Wimbledon titles).

"He may be the one to stop Laver's bid for a grand slam in the Nationals at Forest Hills," Mexico eliminated the United States 3-2.

Xavier Slates Grid Meeting Wednesday
Xavier High School's first varsity football meeting of 1962 will be held Wednesday evening at the school, according to Coach Gene Clark.

The movie, "Knut Rockne, All-American," will be shown at 8 p.m., and the grid meeting will be held immediately afterward. Physical examinations, insurance and equipment insurance will be discussed.

Xavier's first practice is scheduled for Aug. 16.

'Kid' Lee, Former Boxer, Dies at 61
WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—George A. (Kid) Lee, 61, outstanding lightweight and welterweight boxer shortly after World War I, died Monday. His brother, the Rev. William T. Lee, will celebrate the funeral mass at St. Peter's Church Wednesday.

Gene Peerenboom, of the Fox River Valley League All-Stars, was caught off first base and tagged out in this third inning action at Goodland Field Monday night. Putting the tag on Peerenboom is Don Engbers, first baseman for the Fox Cities Foxes, who took the throw from catcher Bill Shirah. The Foxes defeated the All-Stars, 8-4. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Keokuk Ends 87 Years of Pro Baseball

Last-Minute Effort To Re-Locate ML Franchise Fails

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Keokuk of the Class D Midwest League was scheduled to be disbanded at noon today ending 87 years of professional baseball in the Iowa city.

Club President William Copeland said Monday the club, which played its last game Monday night in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was forced to leave Keokuk because of poor attendance. Copeland said only 300 season tickets, half the minimum required to support the team, had been sold this season.

No other city was found to assume the franchise and Midwest League President C. C. Hoffman announced Monday the team would be disbanded.

No Help Given
Copeland said the club would be about $8,000 in debt if it finished the 1962 minor league season. He said the parent Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League declined to lend financial assistance because it might set a precedent in its dealings with other farm clubs.

The Dodgers will either option Keokuk's 20 players to other clubs, give them an outright release or sell them to other teams.

Hoffman said Springfield, Ill., Des Moines, Iowa, Wisconsin Rapids and Fond du Lac, Wis., were interested in the franchise but could not handle the team this year.

Keokuk was in fifth place in the 10-team league, 5 1/2 games behind league-leading Waterloo.

Foxes Beat FRVL All-Stars, Meet Quad Cities Tonight

Collect 14 Hits in 8-4 Exhibition Win

BY JIM RAPP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
The Fox Cities Foxes took advantage of some loose play in the field to get off to an early lead and handed the Fox River Valley League All-Stars an 8-4 setback in an exhibition game at Goodland Field Monday night.

A crowd of 327 watched the All-Stars commit seven errors, including five in the first inning. The Foxes capitalized to score three times in the first frame, a pair in the third and three more in the fourth.

Tonight, the Foxes return to Midwest League competition meeting Quad Cities in the opener of a 5-game series. The "Elks Booster Game" at Goodland Field will start at 8 p.m. Proceeds from the game will be used to help handicapped children.

Only four of the Foxes' runs last night were earned as Bob Schmidt and Leigh Wachel of the Stars kept the 14 hits for the winners fairly well spaced.

Pitches 4 Innings
Dave Pickle started on the mound for the Foxes and worked the first four innings. He was followed by newcomer Bill St. Peter and Larry Eck.

Wachel displayed good form against the Foxes and did not allow a run or a walk in the four innings he worked. Schmidt gave up nine hits, several of the fluke variety, and also did not walk a batter.

The Foxes' hurlers had the strikeout ball working as they combined to set 14 All-Stars down. Pickle fanned six, St. Peter, four and Eck, four.

The Stars had the lead once, in the top of the first when Jim Vande Wetering walked, took second on a wild pitch and scored on Gene Peerenboom's single.

The Foxes came right back to take the lead when the Stars could not find the handle on the ball and were saddled with five miscues in the first frame. The only

Peters Replaces Del Southern on Foxes' Roster

The Fox Cities Foxes have released outfielder Del Southern, who joined the team in June.

The release was announced by Foxes' General Manager Bob Willis prior to Monday night's exhibition contest.

The move made room for Rex Peters, who joined the team on the last road trip. Peters hails from Denver, Colo., and was signed out of Colorado State University in June. He reported from Bluefield of the all-rookie Appalachian League.

Gros and Blaine Fit Right Into Packers' Policy of 'Bigness'

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
GREEN BAY—The policy of bigness that characterizes Packer running backs and offensive guards was continued Monday with the presence of Earl Gros and Ed Blaine for their first pro drill.

Gros and Blaine, fresh from the College All-Star game, fit right in. Gros packs around 220, which makes him the biggest of the R-backs. Jim Taylor 215, Paul Hornung 205, Tom Moore 215, Ernie Green 205, and Elijah Pitts 200.

Blaine carries a little over 240 pounds, which puts him in the "heavyweight" class of "Fuzzy" Thurston (240) and Jerry Kramer (250). Packer guards are unique because they outweigh the tackles at times during the season.

Lombardi wants his backs to cut loose downfield maybe 20 yards. And it's refreshing to see Hornung, Taylor and Moore gallop away like young colts once they hit the area occupied by the linebackers. Another exponent of the long run is Lew Carpenter, a rugged 8-year veteran whose hard-running was among the Packer highlights of the All-Star game.

Green had trouble going the "distance" in recent practices for a big man but like most newcomers he had to be reminded by Coach Vince Lombardi to "run it out." Some rookie backs will stop running about five yards beyond the line of scrimmage, probably a habit picked up in school.

U. S. Eliminated in Zone Net Matches

Mexican Team Takes Series, 3-2; McKinley Posts Pair of Victories

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Out of the wreckage of another shattered U.S. Davis Cup campaign a single glimmer of light emerged today in the form of Chuck McKinley.

If there was one individual standout in the 3-day series of matches, in which Mexico eliminated the United States 3-2 from the American zone, it was the stocky Trinity (Tex.) University student from St. Ann, Mo.

McKinley won both his singles matches and almost single-handedly pulled out two sets in the five-set doubles duel in which his partner, Dennis Ralston, went sour at the service line.

"McKinley was easily the best player on either team," said Bob Kelleher, the U.S. captain, today. "I'm proud of all the boys—we missed winning by just a small eyelash—but I'm particularly pleased with the way McKinley has developed."

"I predict he will be a factor in amateur tennis for years to come."

Pancho Gonzales, the former pro king who served as coach of the Yanks, said McKinley is the nucleus around which Uncle Sam make a run at the Yankees, this is the month for it.

Angels Win
The third place Los Angeles Angels, almost given up for dead, showed signs of life at Boston, trimming the Red Sox 5-2 to move within 5 1/2 games.

The Chicago White Sox beat Baltimore 5-4 in 11 innings. Cleveland edged the Detroit Tigers 6-5, and Kansas City topped the Washington Senators 1-0.

Frank Sullivan was the Minnesota hero, as he came on in relief of starter Dick Stigman in the eighth inning with two runs in and trimmed to four games. They have eight more games between now and Sunday, against Minnesota (1), Baltimore (3) and Detroit (4).

Dean Chance pitched a six-inning shutout.

Tollette Wins Title; Sherry Fires Eagle

Hank Tollette has won the 1962 des Morts. Martin fired a 34 on senior golf championship at the Menasha North Shore Club. Tollette edged Loyal Williams, 1 up, in the 18-hole final match to succeed Heber Pelkey as champion. Tollette, who also won the senior title in 1958 and '59, beat Ralph McGowan, 4 and 3, in the semi-finals. Williams downed Ed Burch, 3 and 2, in the semis.

T. J. Sherry carded an eagle 2 on Butte des Morts' No. 3 hole Monday afternoon. Sherry used a driver off the tee on the 323-yard hole, then dropped his 5-iron shot from the fairway. It was the second eagle of the season at the course. Sherry had nines of 37-37 for a 74.

hit of the inning was a run-scoring double by Bill Shirah, his first of two for the night.

A 4 Straight Hits

A single, error and another double by Shirah, a pop into center that was lost in the lights, sent another run home in the third and Shirah scored when Rex Peters drilled the first of his four straight singles.

The Foxes capped it off by adding three in the fourth on four hits, a passed ball and a balk.

The All-Stars added a run in the second when Rog Gerrits of Freedom tripled and scored on a wild pitch by Pickle. The third run for the losers came in the fifth when Rog Vander Wyl singled, got to third on a miscalculation and scored on another error.

The final run for the Stars crossed the plate in the ninth when Hank Peerenboom was safe on a fielder's choice took second on a wild pitch and scored on a single by Phil Williams.

Local sportscaster Bill Kiss got into the game when he batted for Eck in the eighth inning and played at first base in the ninth. In his turn at bat, Kiss was called out on strikes.

New London '9' Whips Manawa Behind Rusch

Retains 2-Game Lead Over Victorious 'Paca

BABA'S SOUTHERN DIVISION

New London	12	1	Manawa	9	7
Wauwapa	10	3	Hortonville	9	10
Weyauwega	6	7	Greenville	3	10

NEW LONDON — The New London Merchants blasted Manawa, 30-1, in a Southern Division BABA game at Manawa Sunday. Wauwapa downed Greenville, 7-1, at Greenville and Weyauwega defeated Hortonville, 9-2, at Hortonville.

New London's Sheldon Rusch gave up five hits. The hosts collected their lone marker in the seventh when Bob Hanson singled across Tom Hoffman.

Clair Baehman, New London's heavy hitting first baseman, had a perfect day at the plate with four hits in four trips, two of them being doubles.

New London scored two runs in the first inning and added three in the third. After scoring one run in the fourth, New London broke loose in the fifth for eight tallies. Bob Kroll singled off relief pitcher Dave Peterson for another pair of runs in the sixth. The final four runs were scored in the ninth on four walks and an error.

Rusch struck out 10 and walked three. The loser was starter Ken Groholski who went three innings.

Hits Home Run

Hortonville's only pair of runs came in the fourth inning when Selis hit a home run with Wayne Huettl on base.

In the top half of the fourth, Weyauwega scored three runs on singles by Lyle Frechette and Joe Grossman. In the seventh, Weyauwega broke loose with seven runs included in the rally were singles by Gary Grossman, Tom Radtke and a double by Jack Wohl.

The win went to Dave Koehler who struck out 10 and walked three. Wayne Huettl started for Hortonville and was relieved by Jim Winkler in the eighth.

Wauwapa scored a run in the first inning on a double by George Polly, a single by Gary Davis and an error. The Lakemen added one in the third on a double by Bob Hanson who scored on a single by Al Replogle.

A triple by leadoffman Hanson in the fifth led to a 3-run rally. In the sixth Gary Davis hit a bases empty homer.

Bob Weller took the win for Wauwapa. He gave up only three hits while fanning seven and walking seven. The loss went to starter Ken Schmeizel.

Glenn Bessette chalked up another in a long string of victories Sunday afternoon when he captured the feature event at the Shiocton Speedway.

The Appleton driver was followed across the finish line by Nativino's Lyle Diehl and Appleton's Jim Beyer.

Keith Steede, of Shiocton, won the semi feature race, Will Fletcher, of Clintonville, and Medina's Bob Schroeder finished second and third, respectively.

Steede won the first heat with Bessette taking second in the third heat. Other heat winners were Diemel (second), Don Tagliapietra, of Clintonville, (third), and Appleton's Floyd Miller (fourth).

Bob Holewinski was second in the first heat, Roland Kanaman was the runnerup in the second heat, and Schroeder was second in the final heat.

Appleton's Jerry Guyette was the winner of the demolition race.

Hezekiah Braxton Scores 3 Times

Free Agent Has 45,961 Colt Fans Delirious in Intra-Squad Contest

BY JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hezekiah Braxton, whom the Baltimore Colts have been keeping under wraps for a year, may be the latest in a successful dynasty of free agent signees that makes Coach Weeb Ewbank look like the world's best bargain hunter.

Braxton, signed a year ago after a college career at Virginia Union, outshone quarterback Johnny Unitas, most famous of all Colts free agents, in the team's annual intra-squad scrimmage Monday night in Baltimore and had 45,961 fans just short of delirious.

The Colts, who got Unitas for a phone call and $25 back in 1956, have almost phenomenal luck with non-draftees. Of the 10 rookies who made the club last year, four were free agents. Pond's Wins 3rd Straight 'Ruth' Title

Pond clinched his third straight Appleton Babe Ruth League championship Saturday as Jerry Falk and Paul DeNoble teamed to stop Miller Electric on only two hits and score a 5-0 victory.

Falk hauled until the seventh when he needed help from DeNoble to retire the last two batters.

George Baer had both of the hits for Miller. Percy Martin and Mike Ziernann each had a pair of hits to pace the seventh hit Pond's attack.

Teddy Kiepkie was the loser. He struck out eight.

but he's legging it downfield now. And Lombardi complimented him for his running a couple of times yesterday.

Gros and Blaine found their first pro practice "so hot," noting that it had been cool during the All-Star camp.

Blaine had never played offensive guard until yesterday. The former Missouri star, who was the Bays' second draft choice, had played both tackles and linebacker. He was a linebacker for the College All-Stars.

Blaine said he liked playing offensive guard and received a good dose of running yesterday as the squad practiced wide runs, with the guards pulling out.

Cardinals Hope to Avoid Injuries That Plagued Team in 1961

Wally Lemm, Only New Coach in NFL, Emphasizes Passing

BY JOE MOOSHIL

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Hoping to avoid the injuries which turned them from solid contenders to also-rans in the National Football League last season, the St. Louis Cardinals are preparing to make a strong bid for the Eastern Conference championship this year.

"If we stay healthy we have an excellent chance to win our division," predicts Wally Lemm, the only new coach in the league.

Lemm last season led Houston to the American Football League title and later was hired by Charles and Bill Bidwill who inherited the Cardinals after the death of their stepmother, Violet Bidwill Wolfner last winter.

Lemm is no newcomer to the Cardinals. He was an assistant coach with the team in 1956 and again in 1959 and is familiar with much of the club's veteran personnel.

Lemm is tickled pink to be coach of the Cardinals "a job I've wanted for 21 years," he says.

The Cardinals last season finished fourth in the East, splitting 14 games. Injuries to such key players as quarterbacks John David Crow and Joe Childress and offensive tackle Ken Panfil hurt.

The final touch in crippling the club were service calls for guards Bob DeMarco, Dale Mummelaar and offensive tackle Ernie McMillan.

Used on Offense

It got to the point where former Coach Pop Ivy, who replaced Lemm as Houston's head coach, was forced to use defensive men on offense and vice versa.

"There was nothing else he could do," says Lemm who spent the off-season studying movies of the Cardinal games last fall.

St. Louis' defense in 1961 rated with the best in the league and Lemm feels the club is set in this department.

"My big job is to get our passers and receivers together," says Lemm. "I've hired Fran Pol-ford to teach our receivers the best way to break into the open. I have a different philosophy of the passing game. It isn't enough for the and the Commodores came back receiver simply to follow the team to capture the second contest, 42 pattern. I expect an individual effort on each receiver's part. He Buntington, 5-0, on four punts and has to do more than simply run the two teams were tied at 3-3 at the end of seven quarters before the game was suspended due to the curfew.

Waterloo Tips Dubuque, 5-4, in 10 Innings

Waterloo scored a 5-4 10-inning victory over the Dubuque Packers and increased its Midwest League lead over the idle Fox Cities Foxes to two full games Monday night.

Cedar Rapids trounced Keokuk 15-3. Quincy and Decatur split, as did the Jets won the last game, 4-3. game. It isn't enough for the and the Commodores came back receiver simply to follow the team to capture the second contest, 42 pattern. I expect an individual effort on each receiver's part. passing. Charley Johnson, a second-year man from New Mexico State, is an excellent passer but apparently lacks experience although he will be given a chance in pre-season games.

Lemm has high hopes for his running attack. In addition to Crow, whom Lemm considers as good as Green Bay's Paul Hornung, and Childress the Cardinals have Prentice Gault, who did a great fill-in job last year plus some promising rookies including Bill Triplett, a flankerback acquired in a swap with the New York Giants.

Triplett, a 212-pound speedster from Miami of Ohio, is the brother of Mel Triplett, the great veteran who is now with the Minnesota Vikings.

Leading Receiver

Another one of Lemm's projects is to develop a flanking end to complement Sonny Randle, the team's leading pass receiver last season with 44 grabs, nine for touchdowns. Triplett may get the job.

A top candidate for this job is Taz Anderson, who caught 22 passes as a rookie in 1961. Then the Cardinals have Jack Elwell, a rookie from Purdue who has been impressive in the training camp. Veteran Bobby Joe Conrad also is a deft receiver from his halfback slot.

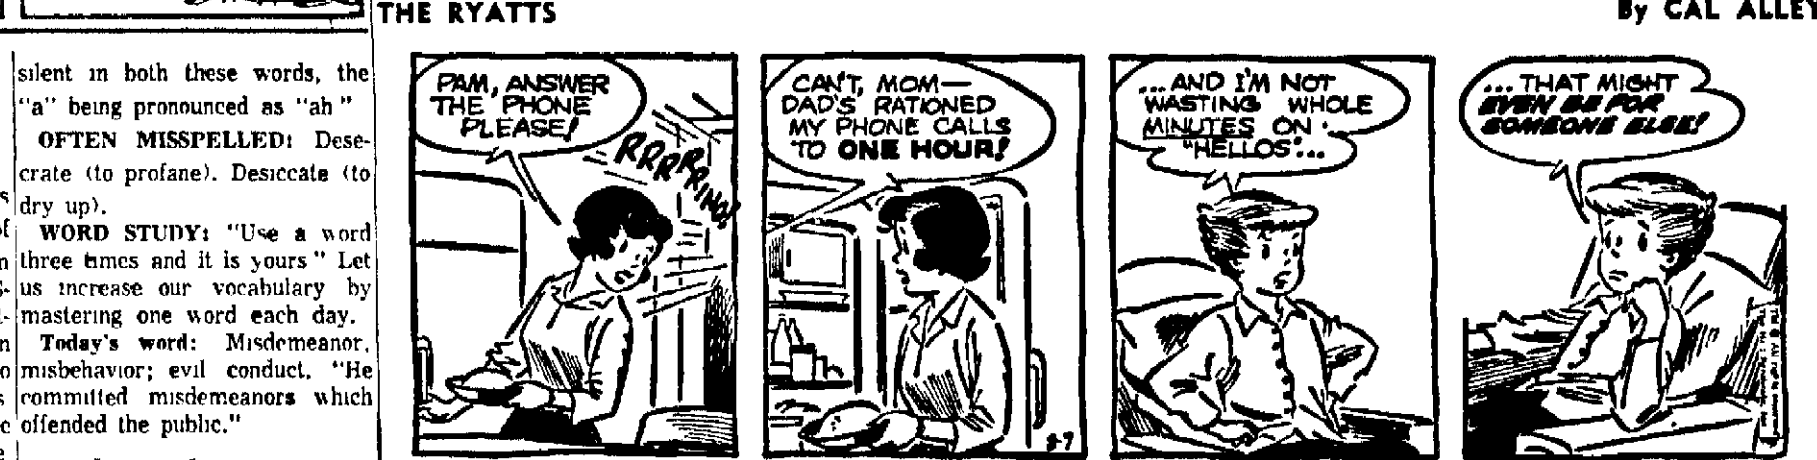

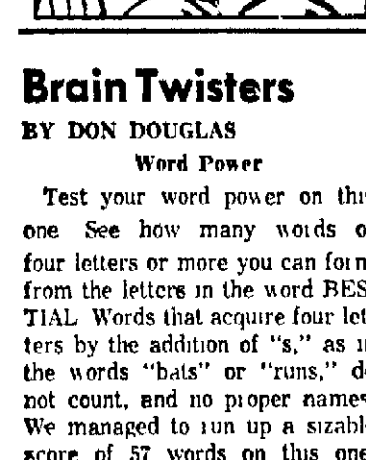

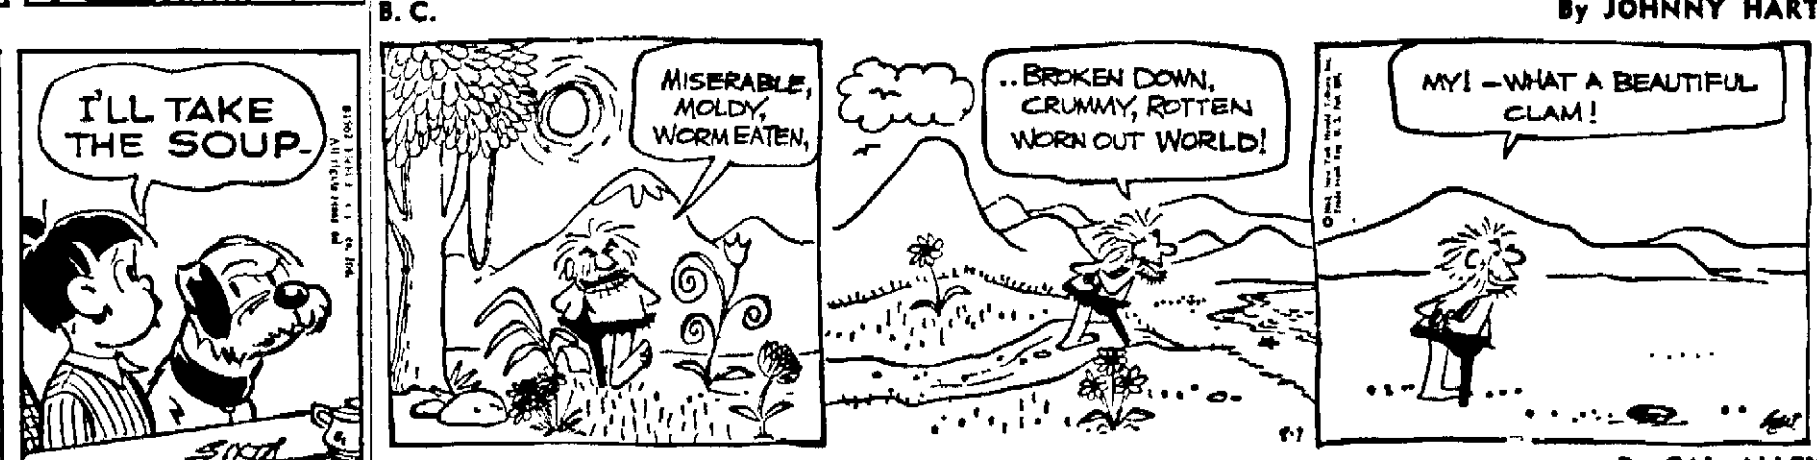

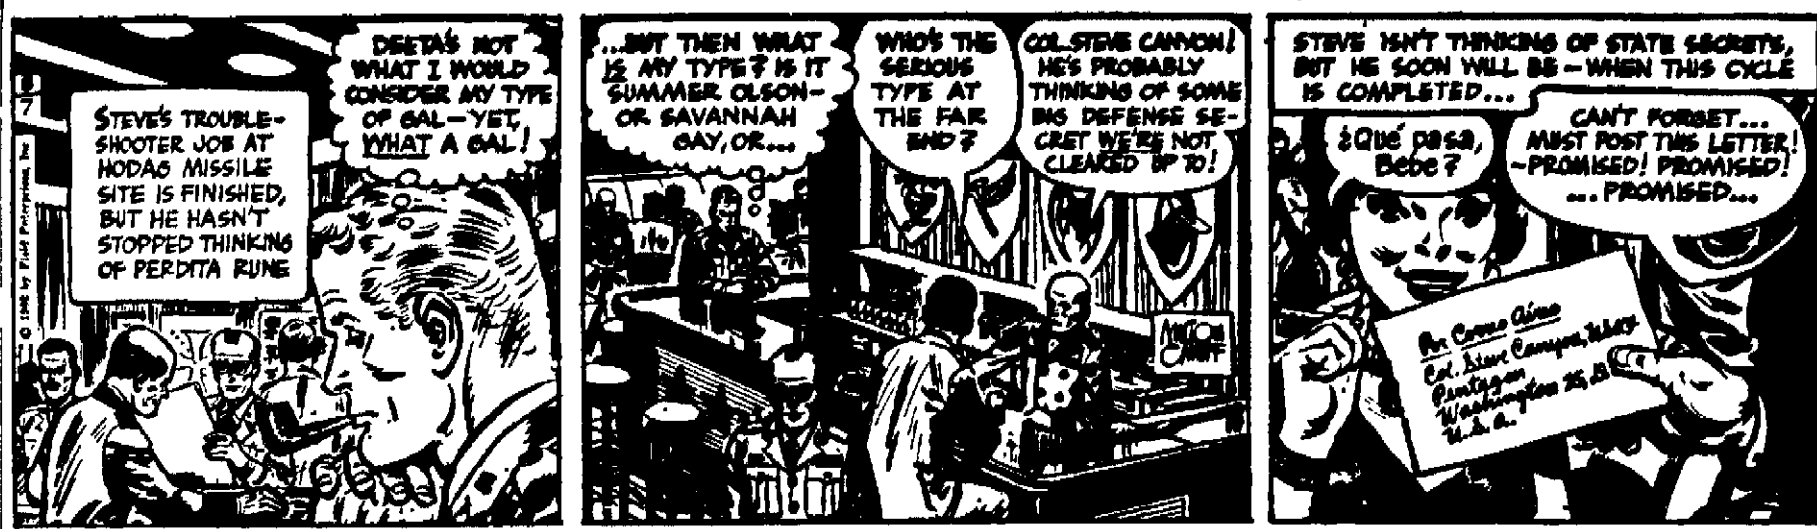

Jerry Norton, the league's leading punter, appears to be serious about his plans to retire. Rookie backs Roland Jackson of Rice and Wilburn Hollis of Iowa are being given a shot at the job and should they fail the Cardinals can always call on Etcheverry.

Lemm considers the Eastern Conference the toughest in the league and pegs Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York as the teams to beat with both Pittsburgh and Washington greatly improved.

The Cardinals play their first three games on the road against Philadelphia, Green Bay and Washington. "If we can take two of those three games," says Lemm, "we'll be on our way."

WYALOWEGA
Wyalowega is an ideal vacation spot located on Lake Wyalowega with the Waupesa River running through it, and the famous golf course just a mile away. My home offered for sale in Wyalowega is as follows: It can accommodate any size family. It is complete on one floor as it has a bath and two bedrooms located downstairs.
Upstairs there are three additional bedrooms. The living room is spacious with a marble fireplace. Modern kitchen and a large dining room complete the downstairs. The yard is beautifully landscaped, including an outside fireplace.
This home has an oil furnace for uniform heat. The house is located on a quiet street, lot 105 Birdsall, 2 1/2 lots are included. The high school and 2 fine grade schools are nearby.
This home offers a great deal of comfortable living at a very moderate price. It will be vacated near the end of August.

Start Advertising, Businessmen Told

BY SYLVIA PORTER
There's one fundamental step that hundreds of thousands of U. S. businessmen could take right now on their own and without any help whatsoever from Washington to help get our economy growing strongly again.

Porter

This specifically means stepping up advertising budgets in a period such as this rather than cutting them back. It means harder training of salesmen and incentives to sell right down the line — from manufacturer to retailer — rather than taking the attitude that the goods will sell themselves. It means concentrating primarily on attracting additional customers, keeping them satisfied and coming back for more rather than concentrating primarily on efficient production and cutting costs. It means taking the responsibility on themselves of spurring our economy's growth rather than complaining about the tax burdens they carry and their lack of confidence in the Administration.

Business Spokesmen
If this were my indictment — and implicit in the challenge is an indictment of much of business practice today — a businessman might understandably resent it a retort "What do you know about my problems?" But a key point of this column is that the indictment comes not from me but from leading spokesmen for the business community and in fact, several have been criticizing me in personal letters and conversations for not reporting to you what they are reporting to businessmen. The best way to substantiate this is to quote the spokesmen themselves.

Woodrow Wirsig, editor of Printers' Ink, a highly respected marketing magazine, began his condemnation of business attitudes back in March, is keeping it up. Says he to "top business management:

Irresponsibility
"You stand guilty today of profound business irresponsibility. The economy now faces an agonizing crisis of growth. You have within your hands the power to resolve this crisis swiftly. Yet you do almost nothing. You complain of the profit squeeze — but you don't really do anything to mitigate or eliminate it. You talk about the marketing concept — yet you think and act as if you were still in a production-oriented economy. You don't invest enough in capital equipment, you don't invest enough in advertising. Yet you complain that the government isn't doing anything. Then you complain that the government is spending too much. You still think of advertising as a cost instead of an investment. You're still the victims of prejudice, ignorance and unwarranted assumptions in your attitudes toward advertising and selling."

This is a "mild" sampling of what Wirsig is saying publicly and privately about business "failure to keep up with the economic times."

Along the same lines, Dun's Review, another highly respected business publication, a few weeks ago declared in an editorial entitled "Better Start Peddling Again":

Running on Momentum
"The truth is many American companies, running on momentum, have neglected or lost the personal and basic knack of

Soviet Talks Expected in Berlin Problem

Red Officials Due In West Germany After Conferences

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service
BONN — High ranking Soviet officials are expected to make two important visits in West Germany

On Wednesday Col. Gen. Ivan Yakubovsky, commander of the Soviet forces massed in East Germany, will pay a "courtesy call" on Gen. Paul Freeman, U.S. Army commander in Europe, at Freeman's headquarters in Heidelberg.

Yakubovsky now is scheduled for return Thursday to his own headquarters in Potsdam near Berlin. Earlier it had been reported he also would visit the French commander in Germany in Baden Baden.

Smirnov obviously knows what the Soviets are planning, if anything, to mark the first anniversary of the Communist coup in East Berlin last Aug. 13 and the subsequent construction of the wall.

Divided Speculation
Among Germans there is intense and divided speculation on the subject. Some feel the Soviets may undertake a new effort to short circuit the Western allies and to make their own deal with West Germany.

Others are convinced that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has abandoned this tack, which had its most explicit expression in a long memorandum last December offering the Germans access to a "sea of trade" in Eastern Europe if they would only agree to Germany's division and to surrendering West Berlin.

Yakubovsky's Heidelberg visit also is being watched with some concern. Many Berliners still believe that the absence of Western reaction to the building of the wall last August stemmed from a similar conversation a few days earlier between Soviet and American commanders. This, it should be added, has been denied repeatedly.

Some "Understanding" But Soviet propaganda continues to imply that some "understanding" has been reached between Moscow and Washington on future Soviet moves in Berlin. The suggestion recurs constantly that such moves will be "tolerated" by the West and not opposed actively.

The moves themselves, if any, remain a dark and guarded secret.

Germans also are waiting to hear that East Germany's party boss Walter Ulbricht and the Communist regime's acting Minister President Willi Stoph have returned from their sudden and unexpected trip to the Soviet Union last Wednesday.

For East Germany's newspapers and radio, the subject is almost as much taboo as the resumption of Soviet nuclear testing with a monstrous atmospheric blast yesterday.

Added to this are the recently renewed Soviet intrusions into the air corridors to Berlin, the threats against flights by American Army helicopters over East Berlin, the refusal of the East Germans to obtain required travel documents for train crews and the flood of propaganda about West Germany's "aggressive intentions" in massive and highly co-ordinated diplomatic squeeze in Berlin's troubled postwar history.

Guest Artist Set For Village Concert
KIMBERLY — Toby Ertl will be guest artist for a concert by the community band at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Sunset Point Park.

Ertl will play several accordion solo numbers and the band, under the direction of Gordon Kotlosky, has arranged songs with appeal for young and old.

Youth Loses License After Auto Accident
CLINTONVILLE — James R. Wilka, 16, 64 Pearl St., had his driver's license suspended for 60 days by Municipal Justice Nathan Wiese after Wilka pleaded guilty to a charge of inattentive driving, with an accident.

At 8:30 p.m. Sunday the car driven by Wilka struck the parked car of Douglas Russell, 21, 2190 Carlton Ave., Appleton, on Anne Street. Damages were estimated at $125 to the Wilka car and $150 to the Russell car, police said.

in massive and highly co-ordinated diplomatic squeeze in Berlin's troubled postwar history.
